Premier Says Debt Problem Must Be Solved Before Opening Conference

LONDON, May 9.—(UP)—Great Britain accepted today the United States proposal for a tariff truce until the opening of the World Economic conference.

The acceptance was communicated to Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's personal ambassador to Europe, in the house of commons just before an important speech on foreign affairs by Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, MacDonald, Sir John Simon, foreign secretary and Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, jointly conferred with Davis before the session.

After the consultation it was authoritatively stated:

"The last obstacle to British adoption of the economic armistice recommendation has been removed. Final agreement is subject only to minor alterations in the wording of the United States draft."

The eight governments belonging to the organizing committee of the World Economic conference were expected almost immediately to recommend abstention from hindrances to trade pending convening of the conference.

POLICE BREAK UP KIDNAPING WITH ARRESTS

Wealthy Manufacturer Is Released By Abductors And Men Confess

FREEMONT, Ill., May 9.—(UP)—A plot to kidnap a wealthy manufacturer came to a swift conclusion here today with the abduction, capture of two suspects and their confession all within a period of six hours.

Authorities had been warned of the plot several days ago and had kept the victim, William Trevillian, 60, vice president of the W. T. Rawleigh Medicine company, under constant surveillance. They permitted the kidnappers to carry out their plot, and then quickly raided their hideout, freed Trevillian and made the arrests.

Laverne Moore, 21, an employee at the Rawleigh plant, and William Stubbs, 27, who lives on a farm near Curban, Ill., confessed the kidnapping, according to United States Commissioner T. E. White, of Chicago. White engineered the counter-kidnaping plans.

The abduction plot was revealed by two brothers, "Red" and "Jack" Schultz, both of La Salle, former undercover men for Sheriff E. J. Welter of La Salle county.

Moore approached them several days ago and urged them to participate in the kidnaping. They informed Sheriff Welter, who called in Commissioner White.

White brought more than a dozen federal agents to the scene and directed the Schultz brothers to work with the kidnappers. He advised both Trevillian and his wife of the payoff of the Hercules Powder company, and was to be distributed tomorrow.

H. E. Dutra, clerk, was about to enter the side door of the bank when a roadster drew alongside and a man stepped out behind him, pushed a knife against his back and ordered him to remain quiet. Substituting a gun for the knife, the man held Dutra and a girl employee at bay while he cut the telephone wires. Then he bound the girl and forced Dutra to open the vault.

After stuffing the money in his pockets and warning Dutra not to sound an alarm, he hurried into the roadster where his companion waited and escaped.

City Starts License Fee Drive Today

Warrants Issued For Arrest of 12 Business Men Who Are Delinquent

THE CITY of Santa Ana started its drive today to clean up the delinquent license fee list, when 12 complaints were issued against local business men by Clyde Downing, city attorney.

The complaints were turned over to Judge J. G. Mitchell, who in turn, issued warrants of arrest and the Santa Ana police department is expected to arrest those named today.

The 12 represent persons who have not paid their licenses for more than one quarter, or who have not made some satisfactory arrangement for paying as demanded by City Attorney Downing. Downing said there were some who had not paid all their license fees, but that these had made "satisfactory arrangements" with him.

The list is headed by C. H. Eckles, Whittier bus man, who has been operating buses in Santa Ana for several years. Records in the office of Ed Vegely, city clerk, show that he is more than $300 in arrears on his license fees. He operates five buses in Santa Ana.

The others on the list are as follows: F. R. Pitner, real estate dealer; John P. Oller, grocery owner, Delhi; Elton Nichols, oil reclaiming plant; Catherine Mang, apartment house; H. M. Hicks, sign painter; L. E. Elliott, salesman; F. A. Hoag, sign painter; H. O. Randall, garage owner; Walter A. Cook, Marvin Bickle and Frank A. Bixler, real estate operators.

Earl Lentz stated that as far as Cook, Bickle and Bixler were concerned, the city would have to check to determine if they had been given state licenses before the city took final action but the complaints have been filed against them and the warrants issued.

These defendants are expected to be in court today and tomorrow and probably Thursday before their cases are completed.

In a statement made to the city council yesterday afternoon, Downing pointed out that while this list would complete the action taken by the city against downtown business men, that the drive against the business men who had deserted the business district for the residential district and who were operating there without a permit of any kind, would be launched immediately.

He declared that complaints in these cases, totaling some 35, would be issued in the next 48 hours.

WAGES OF 50,000 WORKERS IN 25 STATES ARE RAISED AS CONFIDENCE IS RESTORED

By UNITED PRESS

A WAVE OF WAGE increases, raising the buying power of 50,000 workers in twenty-five states, was industry's answer today to President Roosevelt's vigorous attack on the depression.

A United Press survey disclosed a widespread growth of confidence reflected in optimistic forecasts as well as in the raises of pay.

Henry Ford, announcing his new deal for his employees, Central Manufacturing company and the Lincolnton Body company.

Another interstate organization moving toward pre-depression wages and salary levels was the Columbian Peanut company, which announced increases of from 10 to 20 per cent for its 2000 employees in 26 mills spread through five states.

The Norwalk Tire and Rubber company passed on to employees the benefits of rising prices in the tire field in the form of a five per cent bonus on weekly wages.

The Artistic Shirt company of Albany, N. Y., with more than 2000 employees in Albany, Troy, Kingston and New York City, announced immediate wage increases of ten per cent and the Standard Kid company of Wilmington, Del., which last January divided a $10,000 bonus among its 500 employees.

Division Of State Money Is Promised

Supervisors Give Assurance After Receiving Petitions Today

ORANGE COUNTY cities will be considered in division of state gasoline and vehicle tax money this year. This assurance was given a delegation of mayors of Orange county cities this morning by Willard Smith, chairman of the board of supervisors.

The delegation, headed by Mayor C. A. Watson of Orange and Paul Witmer of Santa Ana, presented two petitions representing all municipalities in the county, asking that the state money be divided between the cities on a mileage basis.

Smith assured the delegation of mayors that the cities' claims would be considered at the time the budgets are prepared but that no action could be taken at present until it was known definitely what action the state legislature takes relative to the gasoline and vehicle tax money. He said that at present the board does not know under what program they will operate in the future and because of this lack of information is not in a position to take any definite action.

Smith said that the program would be known however before the board starts preparing the budget for 1933-34. The cities, he said, will have an opportunity to present their claims and will be given consideration.

Mayor Watson of Orange presented a resolution signed by Paul Witmer, mayor of Santa Ana; Watson, mayor of Orange; Elton G. Conrad, mayor of Huntington Beach; L. A. Hogue, mayor of Brea; W. L. Hale, Fullerton mayor; R. L. Plume, San Clemente mayor; Charles H. Mann, Anaheim mayor; and W. M. Huntley, mayor of Tustin. He also presented a similar resolution signed by Frank L. Rinehart, city clerk of Newport Beach.

The resolutions presented the board declared that the county annually received from the state approximately $215 per mile for the 1500 miles of highways in this county. This amounts to $222,500.

The cities, according to the resolutions, have not received an equitable portion of this fund in the past. During the period of depression every effort is being made by the cities to reduce the taxpayer's burden and the resolutions pointed out that if this fund were distributed on a fair and equitable basis to the cities the taxes could be reduced.

The resolutions asked that the gasoline and vehicle tax fund be distributed to the cities on a mileage basis and pointed out that approximately 500 miles of the highway system is inside the cities.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 9.—(UP)—Governor Rolph today revealed he had changed his mind concerning personal delivery and radio broadcasting of his reply to the Inman investigating committee report.

Without indicating what led him to change his mind, the governor said he was now planning to submit his answer to the senate by messenger.

Voters To Decide Whether Santa Ana To Have Beer Or Not Early In June

ON FIRST READING

Seventy-One Precincts In City To Be Consolidated Into Twenty-Five.

VOTERS of the city of Santa Ana will go to the polls on Thursday, June 8, to determine whether they want alcoholic liquor sold in Santa Ana. The election is being held at the result of an initiative petition sponsored by the Santa Ana Cafe Owners' association, after the council had refused to amend present dry ordinances which ban the sale of alcoholic beverages of more than one half of one per cent alcoholic content.

This date was set last night by the Santa Ana city council, after several weeks of discussion and the date is two or three weeks ahead of any plans the council had heretofore made. Last week board members virtually agreed to hold the election on June 22.

Last night, however, members of the board expressed themselves as being in favor of "getting it over with" as soon as possible and after conferring with Ed Vegely, city clerk, as to how soon the election could be held and still give him plenty of time to send out sample ballots and make other necessary plans, the date was set.

Only persons who have registered 40 days prior to the election date will be permitted to vote.

Heretofore the date for the election was at all times unofficial. The act by the council last night started the legal proceedings and is final.

The council also agreed to consolidate the city's 71 precincts, having 25 voting places instead, as there is only one question to appear on the ballot, it was pointed out, and not a great amount of time will be needed for the voter to mark the ballot.

First reading of an ordinance setting the date was given by the council and it was referred back to the city attorney. Final reading will be given next Monday night.

The council agreed to pay election poll workers $3 for the day. There will be the usual four workers in each precinct and the price is lower than the city has paid in many years, the council doing everything possible to keep the election from costing any more than necessary.

ROLPH CONFERS OVER PLANS TO SLASH BUDGET

Holds Secret Meeting With Officials On Bill Now Awaiting Signature

SACRAMENTO, May 9.—(UP)—Four budgetmakers who, between them, produced three different versions of how much the state should spend the next two years, conferred secretly today to determine how much the $247,000,000 budget bill should be pared.

Governor Rolph, Director of Finance Roland Vandegrift, Senator Will R. Sharkey, chairman of the senate finance committee, and Lawrence Cobb, chairman of the assembly ways and means committee, met in the governor's office and prepared for an executive session.

Meanwhile, heads of state departments clamored to see the governor and present their objections to cuts.

The governor said he had suggested reductions presented by Vandegrift which would lop off $2,500,000.

The $247,000,000 budget bill was submitted to the executive Saturday. The governor first indicated he would not sign the budget bill until Saturday, thus holding up 111 appropriation bills. Later he indicated he contemplated cutting the budget to a point half way between the senate's figure of $247,000,000 and the assembly's proposed budget of $241,000,000.

PINOLE, Calif., May 9.—(UP)—Slipping into the Pinole bank as it was being opened for business today, a gunman scooped up $15,000 in currency and fled with a companion toward Berkeley.

The money comprised part of the payroll of the Hercules Powder company, and was to be distributed tomorrow.

H. E. Dutra, clerk, was about to enter the side door of the bank when a roadster drew alongside and a man stepped out behind him, pushed a knife against his back and ordered him to remain quiet. Substituting a gun for the knife, the man held Dutra and a girl employee at bay while he cut the telephone wires. Then he bound the girl and forced Dutra to open the vault.

U. S. DENIES IT TO INTERVENE IN CHINA

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(UP)—State department officials today emphatically denied reports circulated in Peking that the United States had promised to "intervene" in China in event Peking was captured by Japanese troops.

GASTON MEANS GOES ON TRIAL IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(UP)—The famous McLean jewels flamed and sparked before the eyes of a jury today in district supreme court where Gaston B. Means and Norman Whitaker are on trial charged with fraud.

Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, testifying how she gave Means $100,000 on the promise he would recover the kidnapped son of Charles A. Lindbergh, said she had offered to pawn three pieces of her jewelry to raise an additional $35,000.

The seven women on the jury straightened in their chairs as District Attorney Leo Rover carried two shining diamond bracelets and a diamond chain to the witness chair and asked Mrs. McLean to identify them.

Lindbergh, who flew here from the west coast for the trial, was ready to testify at the completion of Mrs. McLean's testimony. A crowd of more than 2000 persons besieged the courthouse.

The world famous Hope diamond was not included in the jewelry which Mrs. McLean brought to the courtroom in a small black bag. Value of the three pieces introduced was estimated at $200,000.

Defense counsel objected vigorously to the introduction of the sparkling jewelry, claiming it had no bearing on the case. Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue overruled the objection.

Mrs. McLean testified that Means had asked her for the $35,000 to exchange it for $49,000 of marked money which was supposed to be the ransom.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

NEW YORK, May 9.—(To the Editor of The Register): Mr. Roosevelt made us a mighty fine speech over the radio Sunday night. He spoke our language, "not ballyhoo the nation into prosperity." "Nation in a tail spin." "Can't make a hit every time we come to bat," and in addition to all this he has the best radio voice in America. Course, he just read the minutes of the last meeting, but he did it so nice that we didn't hardly notice that he forgot to mention what might be in his mind for the future.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS

DESTROYER GUARDS TREASURE SEEKERS

NORFOLK, Va., May 9.—(UP)—The destroyer Davis stood guard today over the sunken treasure ship Merida, 60 miles off the Virginia Capes, to preserve order among rival expeditions attempting to salvage $5,000,000 from the bulk.

The Davis, flagship of the Coast Guard Communication squadron, sped to the scene last night, after Capt. H. L. Bowdoin of the salvage steamer Salvor, reported that his expedition was threatened by "interlopers."

Later the rival Hall-Evarts expedition advised the coast guard that Capt. Bowdoin and his crew had driven them from a position they had mapped out over the Merida, a Ward liner that went down in 1911.

The new regulations state that "a physician shall not prescribe for a patient at any time a quantity of liquor in excess of what he in good faith believes is required to meet the medicinal needs of the patient."

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(UP)—Temporarily laying up one-third of the vessels in the United States fleet is one of the principal economies decided upon by naval officials to effect a $53,000,000 saving in expenditures in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Secretary Swanson and Budget Director Douglas have agreed to limit the year's naval expenditures to $770,000,000. Congress has appropriated $809,500,000 and in addition the navy had expected to use some $13,000,000 left over this year.

A WAVE OF WAGE increases, raising the buying power of 50,000 workers in twenty-five states, was industry's answer today to President Roosevelt's vigorous attack on the depression. "We have made a complete turn-around, and at last America's face is toward the future." The most impressive move toward restoration of buying power was taken by Erret Loban Cord, president of the E. L. Cord corporation, who announced, within 12 hours after Mr. Roosevelt's public review of his first eight weeks in office, that all Cord units would raise wages 5 per cent on May 10. The Cord companies affected by the increase are: American Airways, Inc., Aviation Corporation; Auburn Automobile company; Lycoming Manufacturing company; Stinson Aircraft Corporation; Duesenberg, Inc.; Spencer Heater company; L. PINOLE, Calif., May 9.—(UP)—Slipping into the Pinole bank as it was being opened for business today, a gunman scooped up $15,000 in currency and fled with a companion toward Berkeley. The money comprised part of the Hercules Powder company, and was to be distributed tomorrow. H. E. Dutra, clerk, was about to enter the side door of the bank when a roadster drew alongside and a man stepped out behind him, pushed a knife against his back and ordered him to remain quiet. Substituting a gun for the knife, the man held Dutra and a girl employee at bay while he cut the telephone wires. Then he opened the girl and forced Dutra to bend the vault. After stuffing the money in his pockets and warning Dutra not to sound an alarm, he hurried into the roadster where his companion waited and escaped.

U. S. DENIES IT TO INTERVENE IN CHINA

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(UP)—State department officials today emphatically denied reports circulated in Peking that the United States had promised to "intervene" in the recent Peking capture by Japanese troops. The Chinese legation also denied there was any truth in the reports that assurances of intervention had been given to T. V. Soong, Chinese finance minister who is now here for discussions with President Roosevelt.

DESTROYER GUARDS TREASURE SEEKERS

NORFOLK, Va., May 9.—(UP)—The destroyer Davis stood guard today over the sunken treasure ship Merida, 60 miles off the Virginia Capes, to preserve order among rival expeditions attempting to salvage $5,000,000 from the hull. The Davis, flagship of the Coast Guard Communication squadron, sped to the scene last night, after Capt. H. L. Bowdoin of the salvage steamer Salvor, reported that his expedition was threatened by "interlopers." Later the rival Hall-Evarts expedition advised the coast guard that Capt. Bowdoin and his crew had driven them from a position they had mapped out over the Merida, a Ward liner that went down in 1911.

Fraud Charged As Out-growth of Kidnaping Of Lindbergh Babe

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(UP)—The famous McLean jewels flamed and sparked before the eyes of a jury today in district supreme court where Gaston B. Means and Norman Whitaker are on trial charged with fraud. Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, testifying how she gave Means $100,000 on the promise he would recover the kidnapped son of Charles A. Lindbergh, said she had offered to pawn three pieces of her jewelry to raise an additional $35,000. The seven women on the jury straightened in their chairs as District Attorney Leo Rover carried two shining diamond bracelets and a diamond chain to the witness chair and asked Mrs. McLean to identify them. Lindbergh, who flew here from the west coast for the trial, was ready to testify at the completion of Mrs. McLean's testimony. A crowd of more than 2000 persons besieged the courthouse. The world famous Hope diamond was not included in the jewelry which Mrs. McLean brought to the courtroom in a small black bag. Value of the three pieces introduced was estimated at $200,000. Defense counsel objected vigorously to the introduction of the sparkling jewelry, claiming it had no bearing on the case. Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue overruled the objection. Mrs. McLean testified that Means had asked her for the $35,000 to exchange it for $40,000 of marked money which was supposed to be used for the trial.

LIQUOR LIMITS TO DOCTORS INCREASED

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(UP)—Physicians under the new liquor prescription regulations promulgated by the bureau of industrial alcohol may prescribe as much wine and whiskey as they want for patients. The regulations in effect leave the question of how much liquor a patient needs to the doctor, lifting the original restrictions as to the number of prescriptions a physician may issue. The new regulations state that "a physician shall not prescribe for a patient at any time a quantity of liquor in excess of what he in good faith believes is required to meet the medicinal needs of the patient."

Thousands Of Chinese Are Reported Killed During Bloody Attack

MUKDEN, Manchuria, May 9.—(UP)—Japanese - Manchurian troops flung the full fury of their attack against the Chinese fighting in Mukden today, inflicting losses which Japanese estimates ranged into the thousands. The Japanese were victors in every engagement, advances here claimed. The offensive, launched east of the Luan river, extended to Shuangwangpu which fell to the invaders. Another column of Nippon troops moved upon Chienan, and stormed the walls. Five streets fighting ensued before the Chinese troops fled, leaving 600 dead, advices said. Chinese casualties were reported in the hundreds at Lengkou where crack troops under command of Gen. Sung Che-Yuan, chairman of the Chahar provincial government, stormed the Japanese positions only to be driven back. The attackers fled in disorder, leaving their dead and wounded. The Chinese military leader numbered among his troops many soldiers of the former well-known Kowmichun detachment. Other Chinese defeats were reported from Funing and Changli, important towns on the Mukden-Tientsin railroad. The retreat was general. Japanese aircraft harassed the defenders as they fell back by persistent bombardment. It was reported here that Gen. Tsai Ting-Kai, hero of China's defense at Shanghai last year, was en route to Changli with his crack 19th route army.

TEACHERS' TENURE BILL IS APPROVED

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 9.—(UP)—Another moratorium measure—this time on teachers' tenure—faced its last legislative hurdle today after approval last night by the senate education committee. The measure, introduced by Assemblyman Sam Greene, provides no teacher can qualify for teaching tenure during the forthcoming two years. It also sets 45 years as the age at which tenure becomes ineffective. Thereafter teachers would be hired from year to year.

DRIVE FOR LOWER UTILITY RATES ON

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—(UP)—A drive for lower utility rates throughout the state was believed to have gained impetus today from the state railroad commission's victory before the U. S. supreme court, ordering the Los Angeles Gas & Electric corporation to effect reductions. The reductions had been ordered two years ago but the utility had collected the old rates pending disposition of their appeal through federal courts. The decision turns to consumers $3,028,826 which the company had segregated in their accounts during the period of litigation.

1774 TEACHERS IN L. A. TO LOSE JOBS

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—(UP)—The Los Angeles city school system had embarked upon a wide-scale entrenchment program today following action taken by the board of education to dismiss 1774 teachers at the end of the present school year. The board voted to take this action, it said, because of uncertainty over provisions the state legislature will make for educational purposes for the school year starting next September. Discontinuance of all night school classes next year, also was voted.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

NEW YORK, May 9.—(To the Editor of The Register.) Mr. Roosevelt made us a mighty fine speech over the radio Sunday night. He spoke our language, "not ballyhoo the nation into prosperity." "Nation in a tail spin." "Can't make a hit every time we come to bat," and in addition to all this he has the best radio voice in America. Come, he just read the minutes of the last meeting, but he did it so nice that we didn't hardly notice that he forgot to mention what might be in his mind for the future.

BOARD CUTS 20 PER CENT OFF SCHOOL BUDGET

What will amount, approximately, to a 20 per cent cut in the salary budget, was announced yesterday by the board of trustees of the Laguna School district, following the regular monthly meeting.

Last year the board imposed a seven per cent cut. This year the trustees have set a minimum salary schedule for tenure, probationary and new teachers and will offer contracts to the teachers on that basis, President C. B. Dunham said. A resolution was adopted, which set the schedule and was concurred in by Mrs. A. B. Collins and Frederick B. Walker, the other members.

Van Lonen Principal Because of low attendance, due mainly to unemployment conditions, the district will lose the state and county funds from one teacher unit. For that reason no new teacher will be employed to take the vacancy caused by the resignation of Principal George K. Bingham. S. Addison Van Lonen, eighth grade teacher, was appointed principal. He will continue to teach the eighth grade, Mrs. Joseph S. Thurston, who at one time taught all eight grades in the school, has been employed to teach one hour daily, to give Mr. Van Lonen an opportunity to supervise the other classes.

Mrs. Phyllis Ranney, second grade teacher, has been granted a leave of absence for one year. That vacancy will be filled by Miss Dorothy Brinkley and the opportunity room she teaches will be abandoned for next year.

Salaries Listed

The salary of the new principal will be fixed at $1900, which is an increase. The other salaries are as follows: Tenure teachers, a minimum of $1500; probationary teachers, a minimum of $1380; new teachers, $1200. Mrs. Lauretta Chilton will receive $700 and Miss Josephine Hills $550 as part time teachers.

Bingham received $2233 last year, having been cut from $2400 the previous year, making a saving of $167 in the principal's salary. Miss Marie Madden, first grade teacher and who has been in the school 10 years, was reduced from $1950 to $1500. The total salary budget this year was $18,800 and the new will total about $15,000.

The board will discuss other budget cuts later on.

West Praises Action

"It means a great deal to all property owners in the county to realize that the school board has shown proper appreciation of the difficult conditions under which taxpayers are laboring," N. E. West, chairman of the Orange County Coast association tax committee, said in commenting on the action.

"The increase in the purchasing power of the dollar as well as the decrease in the ability of the property owner to pay taxes makes it almost mandatory that tax-fixing bodies do something substantial in the way of budget cutting. Although the cuts here are not as great as those made in San Juan Capistrano High school district, it is gratifying to know that those who are handling the tax situation have come to a full realization that sentiment must be cast aside and a decided move begun to improve conditions of the taxpayers."

"I hope, too, that the taxpayers of the county will realize fully the important part the tax committees of the Orange County Coast association, the Orange County Farm bureau, the Associated Realty Boards of the Twelfth district and J. F. Burke of the Santa Ana Register have played in bringing the tax-fixing bodies of this county to a sense of their obligations to the people."

SAN CLEMENTE, May 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Plume entertained a few friends recently with a movie party. The picture machine was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Detrick of Long Beach, who were guests. Scenes filmed by Dr. Paul Esslinger, of San Juan Capistrano, during a recent European trip, were shown, as were films made by W. Ed. employees, raised wages seven per cent.

J. S. Bache and company, one of the largest stock exchange houses, announced 10 per cent increases for employees engaged before January 1 of this year in recognition of their loyalty during the depression.

Textile Mills

The textile mills of the south also felt the buoyant optimism of higher wages. Fifteen cotton mills in the Greenville, S. C., district advanced all wages 10 per cent.

At Detroit, officials of the American Store Equipment company with branches and subsidiaries in Muskegon and New York announced a 10 per cent raise for all employees. At Uniontown, Pa., an immediate five per cent increase for its 410 employees was ordered by the Berkowitz Shirt factory. In New Orleans Bluford Butler, prominent realtor and civic leader, raised the salaries of all his employees 10 per cent and appealed to other employers to follow his lead. The response, he said, was enthusiastic.

The Ford statement was an impressive call for optimism. The industrialist will spend a large sum in daily and weekly newspaper advertising to reaffirm his belief in the president's program.

"Three years—1929 to 1932—we Americans looked backward," his first message said. "We now realize that the way out is forward. Thanks for that belongs to President Roosevelt. Inauguration day he turned the ship of state around. He is clearing international obstacles out of the way. He has courage and loyalty to work for one supreme interest only—the welfare of the American people."

ed to have been paid to the kidnapers.

She said Means told her he would attempt to obtain the $35,000 but when he failed she gave the three pieces of jewelry to a "friend" for the amount.

In response to questions from Rover, Mrs. McLean testified she did not succeed in borrowing the $35,000.

The Hope diamond, traditionally associated with misfortune for its owners, was placed with a pawnbroker last month by Mrs. McLean in an effort to obtain money with which she might gain control of the Washington Post, now in receivership.

From the witness stand Lindbergh went back over the tragic story of the abduction and murder of his son.

A stir of conversation swept through the courtroom as District Attorney Rover said: "Call Col. Lindbergh."

Cross examination of Mrs. McLean was interrupted to permit Lindbergh to testify.

Lindbergh talked in a low voice. Rover asked him to speak louder. "How old was your son on the first of March, 1932?"

"Eighteen months," "After the boy was kidnaped did you ever see him alive again?" Rover asked slowly.

"No."

"Did you ever see him dead?" "Yes, on May 13 at the morgue at Trenton, New Jersey."

"Did you identify the body?" "I did."

"Did you give any money to anyone during the time the child was kidnaped?"

"Yes, $50,000 to Dr. Condon."

"(Pause.)"

Edward Tomlinson, counsel for Means, opened cross examination by asking what time the baby was kidnaped.

Lindbergh said it was 10 p. m. "At the time you paid over the $50,000," Tomlinson asked, "was there anything exhibited to you that would identify the senders as being kidnapers of the child?"

"Yes."

"What was it?"

"A note."

"Anything else?"

"Yes, a piece of garment. I am fairly sure it was genuine."

"Was there any doubt about it?" "There was no doubt in my mind about the note being from the kidnapers."

NOTE FROM ALLEGED CAPTIVE IS FOUND

A note stating that the writer was on board a smuggling ship and being taken to Mexico as a white slave was found in a bottle in the Santa Ana river bed near the railroad bridge and 101 highway yesterday by two Orange men, C. R. Sloan, of 417 East Culver, and W. E. Sloan, of North Prospect avenue.

The men turned the note over to Chief of Police B. F. Richards of Orange for investigation.

The missive was written on a piece torn from an envelope and was badly stained. It was signed "Irene Taylor." No address was given. The note follows:

"I am being held a captive on board a smuggling ship; to be taken into white slavery in Mexico."

EXPANSION OF COUNTY RURAL CREDIT SOUGHT

A definite movement to expand credit in rural sections of Orange county was launched at a meeting of 55 leading Orange county citizens and others yesterday afternoon in the Green Cat cafe which was sponsored by the rural credit committee of the Orange County Farm Bureau.

Federal land banks have been reticent in making loans in Orange county because of the water situation, according to R. D. Flaherty, secretary of the Farm Bureau, who said the meeting yesterday was the first in a movement to remedy the situation.

A motion was adopted at the meeting requesting the Farm Bureau to get up a committee including county leaders to make a survey of the districts in this county, with the help of flood control engineers, to determine the water resources of the county in the various districts, and not as an entire county unit, and to submit the report to the federal land bank.

Lift Restrictions

This move will be made so that in the future if the bank feels it is necessary to make certain loan restrictions in Orange county, the restrictions will be made by small districts and not as an entire county unit.

C. A. Palmer of Villa Park, chairman of the rural credit committee, presided at the meeting. Al Johnson, secretary of the California Farm Bureau Federation, was present at the meeting, as well as Roy Cole, state director of Whittier, Willard Ellis, president of the Berkeley federal loan bank, and Raymond Nebelung of Anaheim, appraiser for the bank in Southern California.

Ellis outlined the policies of the federal land bank and explained the operation of the new law which is expected to be signed any day now under which land banks could take over much of the farm mortgages in the United States so farmers can refinance loans at 4 1/2 per cent over a long period of time.

Fred Gleason, who is in charge of the Los Angeles office of the state division of water resources, made a brief talk in which he outlined water studies which have been made in Orange county. He declared there has been no evidence of salt water intrusion in the investigations.

Ellis agreed that the Berkeley bank would cooperate in every way possible to help the situation in Orange county.

Supervisors LeRoy Lyon and Willard Smith were present also at the meeting.

BLAME SANTA ANA "HOOCH" FOR SHOT

One taste of liquor was "bad medicine" for Detective Sergeant Charles W. Wolford of the Santa Ana police department, according to testimony he gave before the state industrial accident commission in Los Angeles yesterday.

Wolford was awarded $94.50 for being shot and the money must be paid by the city of Santa Ana. He testified that he was investigating a house where liquor was being consumed and that his investigation called for a taste of the liquor. As he took the taste, his pistol dropped and exploded, the bullet entering his back, he said.

He recently resumed his duties on the Santa Ana police force after leaving the hospital, where his condition was regarded as serious for some time.

villian. They had been ordered to take the victim to Stubbs' farm. Halfway there Moore and Stubbs met the Schultz brothers and the victim. Stubbs went with one of the brothers and took Trevillian to an abandoned barn. Moore and the other Schultz brother returned to Freeport.

Still carrying out Moore's orders, "Red" Schultz took a $25,000 ransom demand note to Mrs. Trevillian and then notified White.

A dozen armed federal agents went to the Stubbs farm, arrested Stubbs and freed Trevillian. Three hours after the abduction he was back at his home.

The agents then arrested Moore. Both he and Stubbs readily admitted the plot, White said.

When will prices go up? Not long ago it was predicted that Furniture Prices would go upward. It was said that manufacturers could not continue to dispose of their products on a No-Profit basis, and neither could the dealer pass the stock through his store at bare-cost just to be doing something.

This prediction is right! Sooner or later furniture manufacturers and dealers must make a profit or go out of business. We believe we have the last of manufacturers' products sold at cost, and we cannot buy at those low prices again; and the buying public cannot expect to get this quality hereafter at such extremely low prices. Take warning. Now! Prices will advance soon! Anticipate your needs now and buy before the advance comes.

LOS ANGELES TO PAY FINE WHEN DUE, HAILED BEFORE JUSTICE

William Knott, Anaheim butcher, had trouble making his installment on a fine levied by Judge Kenneth E. Morrison in the Santa Ana justice court some time ago, so yesterday Judge Morrison issued a bench warrant and brought Knott to court to explain why the payments were not made.

Knott was sentenced to serve 90 days in jail on a charge of reckless driving some time ago. The sentence was suspended in case he paid a $200 fine at the rate of $25 a month. He had paid but $5 in April, lacking $20 of the required payment.

Yesterday he paid the $25 installment for May, and was given until Thursday to pay the $20 balance for April. The court informed Knott that it had heard that he had been driving an automobile contrary to court orders and that this phase of the case would be investigated.

ROLPH CONFERS OVER PLANS TO SLASH BUDGET

The governor's original budget proposal was $255,000,000. "These proposed reductions affect practically every state department," the governor said. "State officials are swamping me, since they learned I contemplate cuts."

"Mr. Cobb, Senator Sharkey, Mr. Vandegrift, and I will probably have to get up in a gutter somewhere to discuss this matter."

The chief executive made no secret of his displeasure with the $247,000,000 budget bill. He complained that neither the senate finance committee nor the assembly ways and means committee consulted him concerning the state's expenditures during the forthcoming year.

Cobb and Sharkey sat at the governor's elbow while the executive was criticizing the manner in which their committees handled the budget. Neither had any comment to offer.

Drastic reductions by the governor may precipitate another budget fight in the legislature. Reduced items would be sent back to the legislature for concurrence, where two-thirds majority would be necessary to override the governor's cuts.

MOVES FOR SPEED IN KIDNAPING CASE

HARWICH, Mass., May 9.—(UP)—Speedy justice as an example to deter other kidnapers became the goal today as state detectives and District Attorney William C. Crossley moved to clear up final details of the case against the Buck brothers, abductors of Peggy McMath.

Crossley predicted that the trial would be over and the case ended within two months.

Within two weeks a grand jury, in special session, is expected to hear the evidence against Kenneth Buck, 27, unemployed chauffeur, charged with kidnaping with intent to extort, and his brother Cyril, charged with extortion under threats.

ed to have been paid to the kidnapers.

She said Means told her he would attempt to obtain the $25,000 but when he failed she gave the three pieces of jewelry to a "friend" in the hope of pawing them for the amount.

In response to questions from Rover, Mrs. McLean testified she did not succeed in borrowing the $25,000.

The Hope diamond, traditionally associated with misfortune for its owners, was placed with a pawnbroker last month by Mrs. McLean in an effort to obtain money with which she might gain control of the Washington Post, now in receivership.

From the witness stand Lindbergh went back over the tragic story of the abduction and murder of his son.

A stir of conversation swept through the courtroom as District Attorney Rover said: "Call Col. Lindbergh."

Cross examination of Mrs. McLean was interrupted to permit Lindbergh to testify.

Lindbergh talked in a low voice. Rover asked him to speak louder. "How old was your son on the first of March, 1932?"

"Eighteen months."

"After the boy was kidnaped did you ever see him alive again?" Rover asked slowly.

"No."

"Did you ever see him dead?"

"Yes, on May 13 at the morgue at Trenton, New Jersey."

"Did you identify the body?"

"I did."

"Did you give any money to anyone during the time the child was kidnaped?"

"Yes, $50,000 to Dr. O'Condon."

"(Jaisie.)"

Edward Tomlinson, counsel for Means, opened cross examination by asking what time the baby was kidnaped.

Lindbergh said it was 10 p. m. "At the time you paid over the $50,000," Tomlinson asked, "was there anything exhibited to you that would identify the senders as being kidnapers of the child?"

"Yes."

"What was it?"

"Anything else?"

"Yes, a piece of garment. I am fairly sure it was genuine."

"Was there any doubt about it?"

"There was no doubt in my mind about the note being from the kidnapers."

ALBERT MARCO IS BOOKED AT COUNTY JAIL

Albert Marco, notorious alleged leader of the Los Angeles underworld, was booked at the Orange county jail last night where he started to serve a six months sentence for violation of the national prohibition act.

The reputed gang leader was jailed here by federal officers. Marco was just released from San Quentin where he had served a four-year sentence for attempted murder and assault with a deadly weapon.

The six months sentence on the liquor charge was given him in a Los Angeles court prior to his being sent to prison on the assault sentence and he is just now starting to serve the sentence on the liquor count.

Marco was also booked under an alias, Albert Rossi. He gave his age as 46 and his occupation as a merchant. He was born in Italy, according to the records at the jail.

BIRTHDAY OBSERVED

SPRINGDALE, May 9.—Entertaining in observance of the first birthday anniversary of their only grandson, Jerry Ruoff, of Garden Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ruoff were hosts at an evening dinner party. An angel food cake with one small taper centered the dinner table. Present were Jerry and his small sister, Norma Ruoff, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ruoff of Garden Grove; two aunts, the Misses Jeanne and Mildred Ruoff, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ruoff.

EXPANSION OF COUNTY RURAL CREDIT SOUGHT

A definite movement to expand credit in rural sections of Orange county was launched at a meeting of 55 leading Orange county citizens and others yesterday afternoon in the Green Cat cafe which was sponsored by the rural credit committee of the Orange County Farm Bureau.

Federal land banks have been reticent in making loans in Orange county because of the water situation, according to R. D. Flaherty, secretary of the Farm Bureau, who said the meeting yesterday was the first in a movement to remedy the situation.

A motion was adopted at the meeting requesting the Farm Bureau to get up a committee including county leaders to make a survey of the districts in this county, with the help of flood control engineers, to determine the water resources of the county in the various districts, and not as an entire county unit, and to submit the report to the federal land bank.

Lift Restrictions
This move will be made so that in the future if the bank feels it is necessary to make certain loan restrictions in Orange county, the restrictions will be made by small districts and not as an entire county unit.

C. A. Palmer of Villa Park, chairman of the rural credit committee, presided at the meeting. Alex Johnson, secretary of the California Farm Bureau Federation, was present at the meeting, as well as Roy Cole, state director of Whittier, Willard Ellis, president of the Berkeley federal land bank, and Raymond Neblung of Anaheim, appraiser for the bank in Southern California.

Ellis outlined the policies of the federal land bank and explained the operation of the new law which is expected to be signed any day now under which land banks could take over much of the farm mortgages in the United States so farmers can refinance loans at 4 1/2 per cent over a long period of time.

Fred Gleason, who is in charge of the Los Angeles office of the state division of water resources, made a brief talk in which he outlined water studies which have been made in Orange county. He declared there has been no evidence of salt water intrusion in the investigations.

Ellis agreed that the Berkeley bank would cooperate in every way possible to help the situation in Orange county.

Supervisors LeRoy Lyon and Willard Smith were present also at the meeting.

BLAME SANTA ANA "HOOCH" FOR SHOT

One taste of liquor was "bad medicine" for Detective Sergeant Charles W. Wolford of the Santa Ana police department, according to testimony he gave before the state industrial accident commission in Los Angeles yesterday.

Wolford was awarded $36.59 for being shot and the money must be paid by the city of Santa Ana. He testified that he was investigating a house where liquor was being consumed and that his investigation called for a taste of the liquor. As he took the taste, the bullet dropped and exploded, his bullet entering his back, he said.

He recently resumed his duties on the Santa Ana police force after leaving the hospital, where his condition was regarded as serious for some time.

EMIL H. HEYING PASSES AT BEACH

Mr. Heying, a rancher, had been a resident of the Anaheim district for the past 20 years. He was a native of Missouri.

Survivors are the widow, Mrs. Ida Heying; one son, James J., of Anaheim; two brothers, Julius, of Fayette, Mo., and Robert J., of Fullerton, and two sisters, Mrs. Amanda Reid, of Anaheim, and Mrs. George F. Flapohler, of Armstrong, Mo.

The body is at the Backs, Terry and Campbell Funeral home. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

villian. They had been ordered to take the victim to Stubbs' farm. Halfway there Moore and Stubbs met the Schultz brothers and the victim. Stubbs went with one of the brothers and took Trevillian to an abandoned barn. Moore and the other Schultz brother returned to Freeport.

Still carrying out Moore's orders, "Red" Schultz took a $25,000 ransom demand note to Mrs. Trevillian and then notified White.

A dozen armed federal agents went to the Stubbs farm, arrested Stubbs and freed Trevillian. Three hours after the abduction he was back at his home.

The agents then arrested Moore. Both he and Stubbs readily admitted the plot, White said.

NOTE FROM ALLEGED CAPTIVE IS FOUND

A note stating that the writer was on board a smuggling ship and being taken to Mexico as a white slave was found in a bottle in the Santa Ana river bed near the railroad bridge and 101 highway yesterday by two Orange men, C. R. Sloan, of 417 East Culver, and W. E. Sloan, of North Prospect avenue.

The men turned the note over to Chief of Police B. F. Richards of Orange for investigation.

The missive was written on a piece torn from an envelope and was badly stained. It was signed "Irene Taylor." No address was given. The note follows:

"I am being held a captive on board a smuggling ship; to be taken into white slavery in Mexico."

WHEN WILL PRICES GO UP?

Not long ago it was predicted that Furniture Prices would go upward. It was said that manufacturers could not continue to dispose of their products on a No-Profit basis, and neither could the dealer pass the stock through his store at bare-cost just to be doing something.

This prediction is right! Sooner or later furniture manufacturers and dealers must make a profit or go out of business. We believe we have the last of manufacturers' products sold at cost, and we cannot buy at those low prices again; and the buying public cannot expect to get this quality hereafter at such extremely low prices. Take warning. Now! Prices will advance soon! Anticipate your needs now and buy before the advance comes.

TRACK REPORTERS AMUCK

That return meet between the Santa Ana and Stanford teams was remarkable for more than a dog-eat-dog two mile, world-record low hurdles race and other brilliant individual performances.

It produced more loose, inaccurate and distorted news stories in any sport event in the history of Southern California. Inevitably, one way or another, half the reporters covering the event did not live up to the standards of their profession. I have clippings in my desk that I like this:

Poor led Morentin across the finish line by four feet, with Winn behind the Stanford runner. (Poor beat Morentin less than a foot; Winn was fully 10 feet behind both.)

Amdahl took his own way out in the race, when off the line to last turn, he swerved and back at Poor as the Trojan was up to pace him. (Amdahl had part whatever in the two-mile race; Morentin did the slugging; the spiking.)

The finish of the race produced the most prolonged outburst of boos ever heard in Southern California. (It's a cliché that there has never been a fight in.)

The throng of 70,000 booted Morentin to the echo... Morentin earned to the press coop to show had been spiked... But one of our own men or Morentin himself had done it. (The attendance was about 12,000. The rest lies no comment.)

Hables came back to beat play Parsons Jr. five yards in 220. (Hables' margin of victory was not more than a yard at very much.)

In addition to these reportorial errors, not a scribe in the place left Art Cohn of Long Beach out a story in the fact that Morentin ran more than half the

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

Santa Ana's first 1933 wrestling show at Municipal Bowl has been set back to May 24. Originally it was scheduled May 17... The annual "this year's last year" football game, which always winds up Santa Ana's spring practice, may be played at night in the Bowl June 5... Westminster found jobs for several star ball players and forced the recipients to re-join Westminster, not just to play there... They tell me one of the best umpires in night baseball has his little tip before every game... "Tex" Oliver has regained 12 pounds he lost last football season... Last Tuesday's season, Curt Couelle's name is still misspelled Youell by most writers... Jim Daneri is not so dumb. The Santa Ana Don captain serves as pitfall for the javelin slingers at all Coliseum track meets. He always speaks for the competitors, meanwhile making a study of their throwing form.

Without one of his shoes, one other writer mentioned fact he dismissed it with a "Morentin lost a shoe mid-through the race." As a matter of fact, Morentin's foot was cut by Poor's spikes and badly lacerated from running about a shoe that Morentin lost Saturday night in a hospital.

BLAHEOLDER SHOWS 'EM

Have you been following the games of the big boy friend from den Grove?

George Blaheolder has pitched games for the St. Louis Browns this year (he was due to pitch the fifth today) and won 10 of 'em. He shutout Cleveland with five hits, clinching his game with a single. Then he topped a 2-0 decision at Detroit, giving the Tigers only three hits. Next he stopped Cleveland, 3-2, allowing two hits. A day ago he beat Boston, 3-2, in winning his own game with a shut that "squeezed" in the dening tally.

Long dissatisfied at St. Louis, Blaheolder probably has made up his mind the only thing to do is make the most of a bad situation. Either that, or the Browns took out of his pay this year has stung him.

For the first time since the National Night Ball league was organized in 1928, Santa Ana will be a decided underdog tonight when it goes to Huntington Beach for its third '33 start.

Champions five times, never before in their history have the Stars gone postward with the top position an odds-on favorite. Even against Anaheim and Westminster, teams which beat them last week, the Stars were conceded an even chance to win.

Huntington Beach has a "new deal" in baseball this season, and throws against Manager "Eeny" Wilcox's men what is believed to be the No. 1 club of the season—strong at every position. There was mild concern about the Oilers' infield before the race began, but Manager Joe Rodgers' two young inner-guardians, Reg Lake and Francis Conrad, have come through with flying colors so far.

Sabella Faces Stars

Frank "Chico" Sabella, one of the leading hurlers of the nocturnal business, will oppose the Stars, with Merv Lower, a big fellow who hit .321 for Torrance last term, handling him. Frank Liebziet, a veteran who hits lustily when he hits, operates at first base, with Conrad at second, Lake third and Manager Rodgers short. He Huntington Beach probably has the best outfield in the league in Pete Osborn, Orville Schuchardt and Odie Maness. Osborn paced the association in hitting last summer.

A big strapping fellow who knows all the answers about pitching, Sabella has a wicked raiseball that has long baffled after-dinner hitters. He was out of baseball last season but in '31 he hurried for Anaheim and was beaten out of a championship only by the superb pinch-hitting of Santa Ana's Ed Daley.

No such array of batsmen will Santa Ana use against these pennant favorites. The Stars are in a fielding slump, but this does not distress Manager Wilcox half as much as the fact that his roster is almost devoid of sluggers. Even such proven sticklers as Tom Denney, Rod Ballard and George Preble have been unable to bother allen moundmen so far.

DeBusk S. A. Choice

Wilcox plans to pitch Ira DeBusk, hoping that the blond kid's control will be better than it was at Anaheim "getaway night." Wilcox will do the catching, and "Memph" Hill will be back in the lineup at shortstop so the club probably will employ its strongest lineup for the first time this year. Young "Chub" Sears will continue to patrol right field, the kid having indicated that he can hit and in the pastures too. Some have compared Sears to Schuchardt at their same state of development.

Two red hot games are anticipated tonight, with Anaheim and Olive, arch rivals, meeting at Anaheim, and Torrance shooting its sensational Louis Neva against the alert Westminster Aviators at Westminster. The other one pairs Fullerton and Whittier at Whittier, with the Posts slight favorites.

Golfers Face Hills Team Here Sunday

Santa Ana's quest for the Southern California golf championship will be resumed Sunday over the Santa Ana Country club's course, Fox Hills coming here for the first of a home-and-home arrangement.

The second half of the semi-final series will be played at Fox Hills two weeks later, May 28, a week's interval being allowed because of the Southern California amateur tournament at Brentwood. The Fox Hills course is located on Slauson avenue near the Baldwin Hills district.

Dr. G. C. Ross, captain of Santa Ana's squad, said his lineup for Fox Hills would be the same as against Redlands unless A. W. Robinson returns from the east in time to compete.

Flying Evelyn Furtuch, Santa Ana-Tustin schoolgirl sprint sensation, was back in training today in preparation for a busy summer on American cinderpaths.

The immediate object of her program is the National Women's A. A. U. championship meet at the Chicago World's Fair in June.

Morentin-Foore 'Grudge Race' At Fresno Proposed

PALO ALTO, May 9.—(UP)—A two-mile "grudge battle" at the forthcoming Fresno Relays was proposed today for Phil Morentin, Stanford distance runner, and Dave Foore of Southern California, whose arch-rivalry precipitated an open clash during Saturday's competition at Los Angeles.

The two-man race was suggested by Coach "Dink" Templeton of Stanford who said if it could not be arranged, he would enter Morentin in the medley relay, an event in which the Trojan star is scheduled to compete.

CAVANAUGH OF FOOTBALL FAME ILL AND BROKE

NEWTON, Mass., May 9.—(INS)—A man whose black "iron" derby once was the signal for roaring cheers at Holy Cross, Boston college and Fordham gradations, whose heroism during the war won him citations and who was professor of jurisprudence at Boston college and Fordham, is waging the fight of his life—for health and against want.

He is "Cav" the hard-fighting Major Frank Cavanaugh, of football and Yankee division fame. A series of shocks have reduced the health of Major Cavanaugh to a precarious state. His illness has drained his resources, and there has been no income since the salary checks stopped coming for his coaching at Fordham.

A government compensation for service disability and a chicken farm, not yet in operation, were the sole hopes of the major—who is 50 years old and the father of 9 children.

He plans to move from his home in Newton Center to the farm purchased recently by Mrs. Cavanaugh at Marshfield. None of the Cavanaghs knows anything about chicken raising but they expect to learn and make good.

RACK REPORTERS AMUCK
The return meet between the Southern California and Stanford teams was remarkable for its lack of a dog-eat-dog two mile world-record low hurdles race other brilliant individual performance.

It produced more loose, inaccurate and distorted news stories in any sport event in the history of Southern California. In fact, the reporters covering the event did not live up to standards of their profession. Having clippings in my desk that I like this:

More led Morentin across the line by four feet, with Winn behind him. The Stanford runner (Morentin) led Morentin less than a foot; Winn was fully 10 feet behind both.

Amdahl took his own way out in the race, when off the line to last turn, he swerved and took at Foote as the Trojan was about to pass him. (Amdahl had part whatever in the two-mile up; Morentin did the slugging, the spiking.)

The finish of the race produced the most prolonged outburst of boos ever heard in Southern California. (It's a cliché that has never been in a fight.)

The throng of 70,000 boomed until the echo.... Morentin turned to the press coop to show he had been spiked.... But one of our own men or Morentin himself had done it. (The attendance was about 12,000. The rest hires no comment.)

Habes came back to beat Riley Parsons Jr. five yards in 22.0. (Habes' margin of victory was not more than a yard at very most.)

In addition to these reportorial sins, not a scribe in the place kept Art Cohn of Long Beach from a story in the fact that Morentin ran more than half the race.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—
Santa Ana's first 1933 wrestling show at Municipal Bowl has been set back to May 24. Originally it was scheduled May 17.... The annual "this year's last year" football game, which always winds up Santa Ana Hi's spring practice, may be played at night in the Bowl June 5.... Westminster found jobs for several star players but forced the recipients to reside in Westminster, not just to play there.... They tell me the best umpire in night baseball has little before every game.... "Tex" Oliver has regained 400-12 pounds he lost last football season.... Although he soon begins his last Trojan pike season, Curt Youse's name is still spelled Youse by most writers.... Jim Daneri is not so dumb.... The Santa Ana Don captain serves as pitfall for the javelin slingers at all Coliseum track meets. He shags appears for the competitors, meanwhile making a study of their throwing form.

Without one of his shoes, by one other writer mentioned fact: he dismissed it with a "Morentin lost a shoe mid-through the race." As a matter of fact, Morentin's foot was cut by Foote's spikes and badly lacerated from running without a shoe that Morentin Saturday night in a hospital.

BLAHOOLDERS SHOW 'EM
Have you been following the games of the big boy friend from Glen Grove?

George Blaholder has pitched games for the St. Louis Cardinals this year (he was due to pitch the fifth today) and won one of 'em. He shutout Cleveland with five hits, clinching his game with a single. He pitched a 2-0 decision at Detroit, giving the Tigers only three hits, 8-2, allowing two hits. A ago he beat Boston, 3-2, in winning his own game with a "squeezed" in the dening tally.

Long dissatisfied at St. Louis, Blaholder probably has made up his mind the only thing to do is make the most of a bad situation. Either that, or the Browns took out of him this year has stung him.

ATING OFF THEIR NOSES
Some so-called magnates of the International Night Ball league who are chortling with glee at the tables of Santa Ana's hapless are only laughing at themselves. Neither smart nor clever, they do not know that a losing club here means their own financial downfall. They have not

Huntington Beach Club Favored Over Star

HITTING SLUMP VEXES WILCOX; DEBUSEK HURLS

For the first time since the National Night Ball league was organized in 1926, Santa Ana will be a decided underdog tonight when it goes to Huntington Beach for its third '33 start.

Champions five times, never before in their history have the Stars gone postward with the opposition an odds-on favorite. Even against Anaheim and Westminster, teams which beat them last week, the Stars were conceded an even chance to win.

Huntington Beach has a "new deal" in baseball this season, and throws against Manager "Eeny" Wilcox's men what is believed to be the No. 1 club of the season—strong at every position. There was mild concern about the Ollers' infield before the race began, but Manager Joe Rodgers' two young inner-guardians, Reg Lake and Francis Conrad, have come through with flying colors so far.

Sabella Faces Stars
Frank ("Chico") Sabella, one of the leading hurriers of the nocturnal business, will oppose the Stars, with Merv Lower, a big fellow who hit .321 for Torrance last term, handling him. Frank Liebziet, a veteran who hits lustily when he hits, operates at first base, with Conrad at second, Lake third and Manager Rodgers short. Huntington Beach probably has the best outfield in the league in Pete Osborn, Orville Schuchardt and Odie Maness. Osborn paced the association in hitting last summer.

A big strapping fellow who knows all the answers about pitching, Sabella has a wicked raiseball that has long baffled after-dinner hitters. He was out of baseball last season but in '31 hurled for Anaheim, and was beaten out of a championship only by the superb pinch-hitting of Santa Ana's Ed Daley.

No such array of batsmen will Santa Ana use against these pennant favorites. The Stars are in a fielding slump, but this does not distress Manager Wilcox half as much as the fact that his roster is almost devoid of sluggers. Even such proven stickers as Tom Denney, Rod Ballard and George Preble have been unable to bother alien moundmen so far.

DeBusek S. A. Choice
Wilcox plans to pitch Ira DeBusek, hoping that the blond kid's control will be better than it was at Anaheim "getaway night." Wilcox will do the catching, and "Memphie" Hill will be back in the lineup at shortstop so the club probably will employ its strongest lineup for the first time this year. Young "Chub" Sears will continue to patrol right field, the kid having indicated that he can hit and that he can go and get 'em in the pastures too. Some have compared Sears to Schuchardt at their same state of development.

Two red hot games are anticipated tonight, with Anaheim and Anaheim, arch rivals, mingling at Anaheim, and Torrance shooting its sensational Louie Neva against the alert Westminster Aviators at Westminster. The other one pits Fullerton and Whittier at Whittier, with the Poets slight favorites.

The high school's lone tally came in the third inning when Wright hit a home run.

Lathrop's big inning was the fifth. Jessie singled, Nicolas doubled, scoring Jessie. Nitta and Soils walked. McCullah singled, scoring Nicolas and Nitta. Swafford singled, scoring Soils. McCullah then stole home.

Golfers Face Hills Team Here Sunday

Santa Ana's quest for the Southern California golf championship will be resumed Sunday over the Santa Ana Country club's course, Fox Hills coming here for the first of a home-and-home arrangement.

The second half of the semi-final series will be played at Fox Hills two weeks later, May 28, a week's interval being allowed because of the Southern California amateur tournament at Brentwood. The Fox Hills course is located on Slauson avenue near the Baldwin Hills district.

Dr. G. C. Ross, captain of Santa Ana's squad, said his lineup for Fox Hills would be the same as against Redlands unless A. W. Robinson returns from the east in time to compete.

MISS FURTSCH TO ENTER BIG MEET AT FAIR
Flying Evelyn Furtusch, Santa Ana-Tustin schoolgirl sprint sensation, was back in training today in preparation for a busy summer on American cinderpaths.

The immediate object of her program is the National Women's A. A. U. championship meet at the Chicago World's Fair in June.

Apparently faster and stronger than ever before after a long lay-off following the Olympic Games, Miss Furtusch probably will run in the 200 meters as well as the 100 meters at Chicago. Her coach, Vincent Humeston of Humeston of Miss Furtusch holds unofficial world's records in both the 100 and 220 yards, her time being 11 seconds and 26 seconds, but these distances will be run in meters at Chicago.

A member of the United States Olympic relay team, Miss Furtusch was unable to compete in the regular Olympic 100-meter event for women because she fell while leading the field at the Final American tryouts. Previously, she had been a winner of two trial heats. Her lap in the Olympic relay was outstanding, many critics giving her credit for saving the United States from a tenth of a second behind.

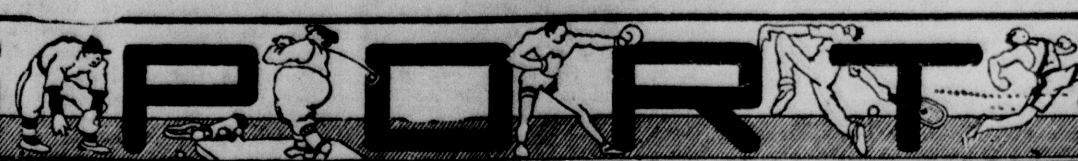

Davis and Mueller Clubs Play 4-4 Tie
In a practice baseball game yesterday at Frances Willard junior high school, Miss Esther Jean Davis' high 9-2 section tied the low 9-1 section of Miss Ruth Mueller, 4-4.

In the seventh grade league, Miss Maurine Mathes' high 7-4 section defeated Lucy Maas' high 7-3 home, room, 17-16. Elmer Baumbach knocked a home run to win the game.

HELENE MADISON TO BE CALIENTE'S PRO
AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., May 9.—(UP)—Helene Madison, who holds many American swimming records, and who gave up her amateur standing last summer after the Olympic Games, has signed a contract as swimming coach at Agua Caliente. She will begin work May 12.

"ALLAH! HELP ME OVER THAT BAR!"

TROJANS MAY PLAY STANFORD AT ROSE BOWL

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—(UP)—In an effort to avoid playing the Stanford-Southern California football game elsewhere than the Memorial Coliseum next fall, Los Angeles authorities today were conferring with Trojan officials over contract agreements.

President Rufus B. Von Klein Smid of the University of Southern California said the game would be played "elsewhere," probably the Pasadena Rose Bowl, if the sixth district agricultural association insists on a different contract from the existing one.

The association operates the stadium and has held out for a new contract calling for a third of net receipts instead of one-third of the gross receipts as specified in the existing contract which expires shortly.

The Stanford game is expected to draw about one-third of the gate receipts for Trojan games played here this fall.

REVISE CAL. LIMIT ON DUCKS AND QUAIL
SACRAMENTO, May 9.—(UP)—Three bills affecting game birds—ducks, geese, quail and pheasants—were passed by the legislature late yesterday and sent to the governor for his signature.

One bill opens the pheasant season four days during the latter half of November. Open season dates are the first and second week-ends after Nov. 14. The bag is limited to two birds a day.

State bag limits on ducks and geese were revised, in another measure, to conform with the federal limits—15 ducks daily and not more than 30 per week; 4 geese daily and not more than 10 per week.

A third bill lengthened the quail season 15 days but reduced the daily bag from 15 birds to 10. Opening season date was set for Nov. 15 instead of Dec. 1. Closing date of Dec. 31 remains unchanged.

Apathy May Close City's Ball League

The end of city league baseball in Santa Ana appeared near today.

There will be no race this year unless at least six teams present their admission fees of $15 each to City Auditor Lloyd Banks, league treasurer, by tomorrow at 6 p. m. Banks announced after a conference with President Kenneth Morrison. So far not a single club has entered, the original deadline having been last Friday night.

Banks said that the city had refused numerous chances to lease the Municipal Bowl to professional promoters in order to keep several nights a week open for baseball.

DONS. CHAFFEY IN DUAL MEET AT POLY FIELD
Postponed from April 29, the Santa Ana-Chaffey junior college dual track meet will be run off at Poly field tomorrow at 3:30. No admission will be charged.

Superiority shown in dual and conference meets gives Coach Ernie Payne's visitors a decided edge over Coach Bill Cook's Dons, although a Santa Ana victory is not out of the question.

Both teams rely on strength and speed, but Chaffey has Santa Ana outclassed in the sprints and distances and will out sufficiently into Don points in the field events to win by a comfortable margin, it is believed.

Santa Ana defeated Citrus 77-54 and Chaffey trimmed the Owls 76-55, indicating equal strength tomorrow, but Santa Ana lost to Fullerton 80-51 while Chaffey emerged an 84-47 victor over the Yellowjackets. Both lost to San Bernardino.

Captain Jim Daneri of the Dons should win the javelin, but his usual first places in the shot put and discus will go to Bob McCue, who last week set an all-conference record in the shot at 46 feet, 11 inches. He hurls the discus around 140. The best Daneri has done in these events is 42.3 in the shot, 135 feet in the discus. "Big Jim" also will run the high and low hurdles.

Earl Motley, 440; Charles McFarland, 880; Jim Tawney, mile; Fred Brooks, high hurdles; Ray Hoar, low hurdles; Ray Furuta, high jump; James Noe and Martin Lorenzen, pole vault; and Ben Slavin, broad jump, have the ability to finish near the top in their respective events for Santa Ana. And other Dons should gather enough points to make the meet interesting.

MEADE. FISHER ARE RULED OUT OF PREAKNESS

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(N.S. Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, May 9.—(INS)—Thirty days on the street level or ground, said the Kentucky Jockey club, briefly, to Jockeys Don Meade and Herb Fisher yesterday after taking testimony bearing on their confidential, little brawl while riding down the stretch on the one-two horses in the Kentucky Derby. Fisher got an additional five days for fighting in the dressing room.

"Thirty days," echoed the Maryland Jockey club, impassively, thus closing the door against a second episode of this gripping serial of headlocks and leg-locks and flashings, slashing whips that beat as one.

The Preakness at Pimlico Saturday night might have been the scene of the next encounter, provided Fisher was able to get a mount. Otherwise, he was out, because the Mason people are understood to have engaged E. Robertson to ride their horse in the Pimlico race.

Prankness Success Assured
Now both Fisher and Meade are out, but, owing to the fact that racing folks are avaricious and don't much care for innovations, their absence cannot greatly effect the success of the Preakness. Racing folks don't go to the track to see jockeys snarl and slash at each other like a couple of shrews on a side street. Besides, only the jockeys are out. The horses, Brook's Tip, the winner, and Head Play, beaten a short nose at Churchill Downs, are very much in and this second meeting on as many Saturdays ought to be good.

Nevertheless, the Fisher-Meade episode added greatly to the gaiety and interest of a very good horse race in Kentucky and, as such, was more than welcome to newspapermen who have written drama into the Derby for so many years that it was getting increasingly difficult for them to emote properly. Paraphrasing old man Dana, it isn't news when the jockey whips the horse.

Incidentally, the decision reached yesterday was something of a tacit rebuke to those critics who inferred that no attention was paid to Fisher's protest at Churchill Downs, because it was lodged against a Kentucky-bred horse. They meant by this that, with a rabid, partisan crowd there, the stewards just weren't going to call this one out at the plate.

Outcome Unaffected by Foul
Actually, the stewards did the only sensible thing. For one thing, the foul riding of both jockeys did not in any way affect the result of the race. For another, to disqualify either was to do one side an injustice; to disqualify both was to make a travesty of the horse race. This would have meant the declaring of Charley O, as the winner of the great Kentucky Derby—and he finished four lengths back of 2:06 4/5!

As for the Head Play-Brook's Tip controversy, it seems to be the generally accepted version that the former should have won last Saturday and can't miss beating the Bradley horse this time. One of the better witnesses on this question even seemed mildly surprised that I should bring the matter up.

"You think Head Play is the better horse, don't you?" was the question.

"By an hour and a half," was the answer, and thereupon the incident, to all practical purposes, was closed.

A WORD OF COMFORT

The pioneers in every age have little interest in where they were going and in what they were getting, were not easily overwhelmed and discouraged.

Life will take on a new aspect for you when you emphasize the glorious adventure of the trail you travel rather than its hardships.

Engrave in your heart of life, unwaveringly struggle toward its fulfillment and you will cease to waste time and energy in angry complaints and pleas for pity.

God has equipped you for spiritual triumph however hard the road.

CONTENTS OF CORNERSTONE REFLECT GROWTH OF SANTA ANA AND ORANGE COUNTY

With three members of the Santa Ana city council of 1904 present, including S. H. Finley, then mayor, workmen yesterday opened the cornerstone of the old city hall building at Third and Main streets. The other two were J. G. Quick and A. C. Black.

The contents of the little tin box inside were turned over to Lloyd Banks, city auditor and will be made a display in the Bowers Memorial Museum. Twentieth street and North Main.

Many interesting things were contained in the cornerstone, which was set almost 29 years ago when Santa Ana had a population of 7300 persons.

Following is a list of the contents of the cornerstone:

1. A nickel, the only piece of money in the stone. It was dated 1887.

County Officials

2. A document showing the county officers in 1903-07 which were as follows: Z. B. West, judge of the superior court; H. C. Head, district attorney; C. D. Lester, county clerk; Theo. Lacy, sheriff; George E. Peters, recorder; W. G. Potter, treasurer; Frank Vegely, assessor; J. B. Nichols, superintendent of schools; Frank M. Robinson, tax collector; J. H. Hall, auditor; S. H. Finley, surveyor; George E. Smith, coroner. The supervisors at the time were H. E. Smith, first district; J. Fulsom, second district; D. A. McMullen, third district; W. C. Holderman, fourth district.

It showed that Fourth street was paved from French to Birch street and that Main was paved from Second to Fourth street. "Business here at this time is good. The population of 7300 with fair prospects of being 10,000 in the next few years," it stated.

At the opening of the cornerstone, Col. S. H. Finley first dug the pick into the stone and then turned it over to the present mayor, Paul Wittmer, who with Councilmembers A. C. Hasenjaeger, William Penn and E. G. Warner and A. L. LeGaye completed the work. Members of the old board who were present for the opening declared that "it didn't seem like 29 years ago."

Funeral services for Charles "Chuck" Lantz, 17, who died at St. Joseph's hospital Saturday night from complications resulting from an operation, will be held at the Graham-Isabelle Funeral home, Los Angeles, tomorrow at 2 p. m. Interment will be made in Rosedale cemetery.

He is survived by his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hunan of Long Beach.

Known as the yodeling cowboy of Justin, he had performed over KREG and many other radio stations. He had been burned several weeks ago when a car caught fire.

WATER WASTE TRIAL TO BE HELD AT BEACH

Trial of the West Shores Gun club, located near Sunset Beach, on charges of non-beneficial use of water in the Santa Ana River basin will be started at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the court of Justice of the Peace Chris Pann at Huntington Beach.

Considerable interest has been shown in the trial of gun clubs in the use of water, and farm centers throughout the county will send delegates to the trial tomorrow, according to R. D. Flaherty, secretary of the Orange County Farm Bureau.

At the recent preliminary hearing, Judge Pann overruled a demurrer asked by the gun clubs, which are being prosecuted for non-beneficial use of water under a county ordinance which makes it unlawful to impound waters for other than beneficial use in agriculture, domestic use or propagation of fish, it was stated.

It is also unlawful to use more than three acre feet of water a year in any case, according to Flaherty.

Suits have been filed against 12 gun clubs. The trial tomorrow will be a jury trial. The case will be prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney W. F. Menton and Deputy District Attorney James L. Davis.

Members of the old board who were present for the opening declared that "it didn't seem like 29 years ago."

SCHOOL NEWS

Julia Lathrop

"Old Ironsides" Theme of Lathrop Banquet
Flags, candles, ships and inspiring flowers expressed the patriotic theme of "Old Ironsides" at Lathrop school Friday evening when nearly 300 parents and students gathered for the annual 9th and high 8th grade banquet.

Don Kennedy, student body president, presided, aptly introducing the various speakers. Virginia Fritchard, introduced as "first mate," talked on ideas of service to the country and to the school. As president of the Every Girl's club, she explained the outstanding ideals of that organization: cooperation and democracy. Harold Jesse, introduced as "second mate," represented the I. X. L. club, of which he is president. His talk on "endurance" and "loyalty" was particularly appropriate and well given.

A patriotic skit was given by Caroline Davis and Paul Wolfen, who played the parts of Betsy Ross and Paul Revere. They were assisted by Phil Dowds and Anne Wetherell. Two selections from the operetta, "Clowns and Castles," were greatly enjoyed when presented by Onie Sanders and Ruth Switzer. Glenn Cave gave a delightful piano solo.

The two main speakers of the evening were H. G. Nelson and C. G. Dowds. Mr. Nelson talked on "Armor Plate," pointing out that the cost of one battleship would pay for 90 fully equipped modern junior high schools and would cover their maintenance for an indefinite period.

Mr. Dowds gave an inspiring talk on "New Patriotism," in which he stressed the need for a new world citizenship. He commended the present local method of teaching citizenship and favored the current educational ideal of making social studies courses the basis of the school curriculum.

Every Girl's Club
The Every Girl's club has accomplished some work long planned in rearranging and redecorating the girls' rest room. Virginia Fritchard, club president, called attention to the new curtains, the attractive drapes, and newly painted furniture. Mrs. Sticks' class of high 7's took charge of decorating the room and purchasing the new equipment.

"Old Ironsides" Theme of Lathrop Banquet

Flags, candles, ships and inspiring flowers expressed the patriotic theme of "Old Ironsides" at Lathrop school Friday evening when nearly 200 parents and students gathered for the annual 9th and high 8th grade banquet.

Don Kennedy, student body president, presided, aptly introducing the various speakers. Virginia Fritchard, introduced as "first mate," talked on ideas of service to the country and to the school. As president of the Every Girl's club, she explained the outstanding ideals of that organization: cooperation and democracy. Harold Jesse, introduced as "second mate," represented the I. X. L. club, of which he is president. His talk on "endurance" and "loyalty" was particularly appropriate and well given.

A patriotic skit was given by Caroline Davis and Paul Wolven, who played the parts of Betsy Ross and Paul Revere. They were assisted by Phil Dowds and Anne Wetherell. Two selections from the operetta, "Clowns and Castles," were greatly enjoyed when presented by Onie Sanders and Ruth Switzer. Glenn Cave gave a delightful piano solo.

The two main speakers of the evening were H. G. Nelson and C. G. Dowds. Mr. Nelson talked on "Armor Plate," pointing out that the cost of one battleship would pay for 90 fully equipped modern junior high schools and would cover their maintenance for an indefinite period.

Mr. Dowds gave an inspiring talk on "New Patriotism," in which he stressed the need for a new world citizenship. He commended the present local method of teaching citizenship and favored the current educational ideal of making social studies courses the basis of the school curriculum.

Every Girl's Club
The Every Girl's club has accomplished some work long planned in rearranging and redecorating the girls' rest room. Virginia Fritchard, club president, called attention to the new curtains, the attractive drapes, and newly painted furniture. Mrs. Sinke's class of high 9's took charge of decorating the room and purchasing the new equipment.

COUNTY BEAN ACREAGE WILL BE REDUCED

Orange county's bean acreage this season will total approximately 27,000 acres according to an unofficial check. This will be lower than the acreage planted last year which totaled more than 30,000 acres.

The major portion of the reduction will be in the dry farming acreage due to the insufficient rains of this season. According to Brad Hells, ranch manager for the Irvine company, that company's dry farming area, plowed after the rains of January probably will not be planted to beans as the soil is too dry.

Hells said today that the Irvine company plans to plant approximately 17,000 acres to beans this year. Of this acreage 4500 acres will be planted to black eyes and the balance will go into limas. Hells said that approximately 75 per cent of the bean acreage on the Irvine for this year already has been planted.

Hells also said that present

Get Relief With Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sallow complexions, and sleeplessness are often warning signs of common constipation. Unless checked, constipation may impair health.

Today, you can get rid of common constipation by simply eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. ALL-BRAN is also a good source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than taking patent medicines.

Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of constipation. Serious cases, with every meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

VALUE OF INFLATION AS MEANS OF SPEEDING UP ECONOMIC RECOVERY CITED

The value of controlled inflation in speeding up economic recovery with resultant stimulation of trade and employment, was stressed in an address by Homer Chaney of the First National bank at a meeting of the Santa Ana Forum last night in the Willard school.

The largest crowd to attend any two hundred millions in silver at the series of forums on money and banking was present last night. Following the address, which dealt mainly with the proposed currency inflation bill, many of those present participated in an open discussion.

Chaney, a former college instructor in economics, stressed the fact that the powers of the president in regard to inflationary measures are limited and discretionary and that President Roosevelt in his program balances the inflationary measures with deflationary moves.

Need Wage Boost
The speaker declared that unless the general purchasing power is increased the inflation bill will prove useless. Wage earners and salaried people suffer individually as wage adjustments lag in an inflation program, he said. Further deflation is necessary and vital to healthy recovery, he said, including tax equalization, liquidation of more banks, consolidation of some industries, further elimination of marginal producers and readjustment of many debt obligations.

Chaney explained that inflation of currency means a manipulation of currency to raise prices and to stimulate trade and trade turnover which in turn would stimulate employment. He traced the program started by President Roosevelt, naming the various measures he has started for inflation.

To balance the various inflation measures, deflationary measures, including the bank holiday and attendant rulings, the economy bill and veterans cuts, the two billion dollar currency bill, calling in gold and gold certificates, tax reduction program and railroad control programs, have or are planned to be adopted, he said.

Inflation Proposals
The currency inflation bill is a rider to the farm relief bill, he said, and includes the following proposals: a three billion dollar issue of fiat currency which is to be redeemed by the government, absorption of three billions of U. S. securities by Federal Reserve banks, reduction of the content of the gold dollar, free coinage of silver at any ratio to gold and accepting up to weather conditions are not the best for planting. He said that cloudy weather and cool nights such as have been the rule for the past few weeks causes the seed to germinate slowly.

A. L. Schneider manager of the Greenville Bean Growers' association, estimated that approximately 5000 acres would be planted this year in the Greenville district and an additional 5000 in the Garden Grove and Smelter areas. Schneider said that the Smelter area acreage would be reduced through increases in beet plantings.

ATTRACTIVE EXHIBIT IN WINDOW OF BANK

An unusual and attractive electric display is now on exhibition in the window of the Commercial National bank building, Fourth and Bush streets.

A wide boulevard and parkway in a colorful scene extend from a plaza in the foreground into a perspective ending in the mountains covered with a purple haze. In the plaza is a modern service station dispensing gasoline.

Toy automobiles drive up to the station and after a moment's stop fill their tanks with gasoline. The scene starts in daylight and gradually fades to a rosy sunset and then into purple night at which time windows in the buildings, the street lights and flashing signs come into play. The cycle then reverses, going from night to sunrise and then to daylight.

The display was brought to Santa Ana by the Langley Oil company, distributor of Hancock Oil products in Orange county.

S. A. JAYCEE ALUMNI WILL MEET FRIDAY

Alumni of the Santa Ana Junior college will hold their annual reunion Friday afternoon and evening in conjunction with the Spanish Fiesta day. It was announced today by Baxter Geeting, '30, president of the group. All graduating seniors in Orange county, who will be in attendance at the fiesta, will join with the alumni at a dinner and program on the junior college lawn Friday evening. One of the features of the program, according to Geeting, will be impersonations of prominent public figures. Boelling, Gene Olsen, Thelma Dugan, June Arnold, and several others are expected to join in this stunt. Music, a few talks, and election of officers also will be on the program.

Inflation Proposals
The currency inflation bill is a rider to the farm relief bill, he said, and includes the following proposals: a three billion dollar issue of fiat currency which is to be redeemed by the government, absorption of three billions of U. weather conditions are not the best for planting. He said that cloudy weather and cool nights such as have been the rule for the past few weeks causes the seed to germinate slowly.

A. L. Schneider manager of the Greenville Bean Growers' association, estimated that approximately 5000 acres would be planted this year in the Greenville district and an additional 5000 in the Garden Grove and Smelter areas. Schneider said that the Smelter area acreage would be reduced through increases in beet plantings.

ATTRACTIVE EXHIBIT IN WINDOW OF BANK

An unusual and attractive electric display is now on exhibition in the window of the Commercial National bank building, Fourth and Bush streets.

A wide boulevard and parkway in a colorful scene extend from a plaza in the foreground into a perspective ending in the mountains covered with a purple haze. In the plaza is a modern service station dispensing gasoline.

Toy automobiles drive up to the station and after a moment's stop fill their tanks with gasoline. The scene starts in daylight and gradually fades to a rosy sunset and then into purple night at which time windows in the buildings, the street lights and flashing signs come into play. The cycle then reverses, going from night to sunrise and then to daylight.

The display was brought to Santa Ana by the Langley Oil company, distributor of Hancock Oil products in Orange county.

S. A. JAYCEE ALUMNI WILL MEET FRIDAY

Alumni of the Santa Ana Junior college will hold their annual reunion Friday afternoon and evening in conjunction with the Spanish Fiesta day, it was announced today by Baxter Geeting, '30, president of the group.

All graduating seniors in Orange county, who will be in attendance at the fiesta, will join with the alumni at a dinner and program on the junior college lawn Friday evening. One of the features of the program, according to Geeting, will be impersonations of prominent public figures. Beeting, Gene Olsen, Thelma Dugan, June Arnold, and several others are expected to join in this stunt. Music, a few talks, and election of officers also will be on the program.

Young People Of City Oppose Return Of Liquor

ACTION TAKEN AT SESSION OF INSTITUTE HERE

Young people representing practically all churches in the city went on record last night as disapproving the return of liquor in any form, to Santa Ana. The action taken was in the form of a resolution adopted at the close of the final session of the Young People's Institute on Alcohol and the Liquor Traffic, held in the Y. M. C. A.

The majority of those present also signed a pledge never to touch liquor.

Last night's session was the last of a series of three held weekly at the Y. M. C. A. under sponsorship of the Santa Ana Ministerial Union. A. F. Newcomb, of Los Angeles, had charge of the three sessions. His subject last night was "The Right Attitude to Take Toward Alcohol as a Beverage and the Liquor Traffic."

Newcomb declared that the nation is again becoming alcohol-minded and predicted serious days ahead if the trend continued. He also said that if the people had no disposition to drink that there would be no alcohol traffic.

Regulation Fails

Referring to handling of liquor in the pre-prohibition days he said that there had been many attempts at regulation but all of them failed. One method he cited was the "Low License Plan," based on the theory that if liquor was cheap and easily obtained the people would not want it. This failed as did the "High License Plan," an effort to "refine" the traffic through selling it in ornate places.

Newcomb discussed the local option method of controlling liquor and pointed out that when prohibition became effective 33 states had laws prohibiting liquor. Ninety-five per cent of the nation's area and 68 per cent of the population was under local option. Under local option, he pointed out, the government failed to protect the dry states.

Government control of the traffic, he declared, has failed in every place it has been tried. South Carolina tried it many years ago and discontinued the plan when after 19 years it was found that there were three "blind pigs" for every legal dispensary and that crime had increased 315 per cent while population increased 17 per cent.

Results in Canada

In Canada, government control, he said, was adopted with the result that there has been a great increase in drinking, bootlegging and crime. He declared that legalized liquor and not prohibition causes the increase in bootlegging and that to charge prohibition with responsibility for graft and racketeering in the United States is unfair.

Citing advantages of prohibition Newcomb said that business leaders of the nation have declared that business increased and collections were not so difficult under prohibition. He also attributed the increase of students in high schools of the nation as due to prohibition.

Proving his statements that crime increases with legalized liquor, Newcomb had charts displayed showing the increase of arrests and convictions in Ontario since government control of the liquor over the years when that province was dry.

MONEY—FROM THE STONE AGE TILL NOW

By WILLIS THORNTON
Sketches by Art Krenz

By the 16th century, corner money-changers had given way to an organized banking system, making international dealing possible and trade expansion profitable.

But as trade grew, nations came to realize that they, rather than merchants, must coin and regulate money. National systems of coinage, with silver and gold tending to replace all other metals, date from about the 16th century.

By the end of the 17th century, paper money was being used in a systematic way. As it was more convenient to use small coins of precious metal in trade than great ingots of other metals, so it was easier still to use paper certificates that stood for coins on deposit.

There is not enough gold, or perhaps enough of any other precious metal, to carry on today's tremendous business in actual coin. Experience showed, however, that credit could be pyramided on as little as 10% of gold as long as the props of public confidence kept it from falling over.

Paper money paved the way to the system of pyramided credit on which our modern business civilization is based. It was found by experience that a nation could safely in normal times issue more paper money than it held gold, and a bank more credit than it held of either. (NEXT: Early Colonial Money.)

An unidentified person was unanimously accorded the title of the "meanest man" in the city today following the finding of an injured dog, tied in a sack, with the sack fastened to a tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Middleton were driving home to Olive when they saw the sack containing the dog tied to a tree a mile and a half from Olive.

The dog would have stayed in the sack until it died had not the dog belonging to the Middletons stood barking over the sack, calling attention to the plight of his fellow canine.

The sack was covered with blood from a wound in the dog's foot. The animal was full grown, white and tan, long-haired dog.

Although the dog has been carefully cared for and fed, it refuses to leave the old sack in which it was tied, apparently still faithful to its cruel master who left him to die.

CANTANDO CLUB WAYCOTT GIVES CONCERT TO BE OLD PAPERS TO GIVEN MAY 16 CITY MUSEUM

Bringing to a close a series of concerts which have made the season one of rare enjoyment for large and appreciative audiences, the Cantando club will present its final program of the 1932-33 season on Tuesday night, May 16, in the Santa Ana High school auditorium.

In accordance with an announcement made at the February concert, the board of directors of the club is making the Tuesday night program one of request numbers, using the selections for which the club received the greatest number of requests.

Those who have heard some of the rehearsals, are loud in their expressions of approval and interest, and have prophesied that the concert will be one of the finest examples of male chorus work ever given in Southern California. As usual, the club will work under the direction of Leon Eckles, with Miss Ruth Armstrong as accompanist.

Increasing the program's interest, and offering a nice contrast between the work of a male chorus and an organization of women's voices, will be the inclusion of songs by the Musical Arts octet, a group of singers directed and accompanied by Miss Armstrong. This group is composed of Sally Lee Scales, Irma Huffman May, Holly Lash Visel, Marie Bishop, Edith Cornell, Cecile Fross Willis, Leonora Tompkins and Beese Nalle.

Additional guest artist numbers will be proffered by Earl Fraser and Dodely Page Harper with an exhibition of two-piano work.

The program will begin at the usual hour of 8:15 o'clock.

COMPOSITION OF S. A. MAN TO BE PLAYED AT FAIR

Unusual honor has been accorded S. J. Mustol, instructor of band and orchestra at the Santa Ana High school and Junior college, in that he has been requested by Fred Theilman, director of the Jacksonville Boys' band, of Jacksonville, Florida, to compose a suite adapted to Florida which they wish to feature when they play at the World's Fair, Chicago, this summer.

Theilman, in a letter to Mustol expressed his admiration for Mustol's recent overture, "In the Land of the Missions," and wished to have something unusual of this type to play at Chicago.

Mustol in accepting the request has begun a suite in five parts, the first part to be called "Night and Break of Dawn"; the second, "Song of the Workers"; third, "Festival on the Beach"; fourth, "Evening Hymn," which will feature the chimes, and fifth, "Carnival and Dance."

HEAVY BLASTS TO BE FEATURE OF CELEBRATION

Three terrific construction blasts Saturday at the site of 13-mile San Jacinto tunnel of the Colorado river aqueduct were arranged today by the construction men to provide a spectacular dramatization of constructive activity on the job for the benefit of the thousands gathered for the Aqueduct Progress Celebration, at Cabazon, according to Col. S. H. Finley, Santa Ana member of the board of directors.

The blasting will mark the launching of actual work on the San Jacinto bore, one of the longest in the world. Driving of the giant tunnel, to be started Saturday, will require a total of six years to complete.

Special attention was called today to the fact that arrangements have been made so that the scene of the Cabazon celebration will be entirely protected from the blasting operations. It was pointed out that the location of the festivities, although commanding a full view of the huge blasts, will be sufficiently removed to insure entire safety for spectators.

CHURCH CLUBS FRATERNAL

WOMEN'S SOCIETY THE HOME WEDDINGS FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

Decorative Details Of Ceremony Conform To Pink Theme

Decorative details of the marriage service, conducted Monday morning, May 8, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wiebe, 819 East Fifth street, when their daughter, Miss Evelyn Wiebe, became the bride of Curtis Pearson, conformed to a delicate pink theme which Miss Wiebe had chosen for her bridal costume as well.

One corner of the room had been banked with pink gladioli, lilies, roses and other blooms. Greenery completed an effective background for an archway and latticed trellis intertwined with ferns and studded with Cecilia Brunner roses and carnations. Pink streamers were among the pretty blooms which had been used in decorating throughout the rooms of the home.

A musical program was given by Charles Crumrine, who sang, "O, Profile Me" and "One Alone," with Miss Laura Joiner accompanying him, and later playing Lohengrin's wedding march as a prelude for the ceremony.

The Rev. Harry Evan Owens, pastor of First Baptist church, in which both the bride and bridegroom held membership, read the wedding service. A. C. Wiebe gave his daughter in marriage.

Wearing a pale pink frock, fashioned with modish jacket and trimmed with touches of blue and pastel tints, Miss Wiebe made a lovely bride. She wore a strand of pearls, the gift of Mr. Pearson, and carried a bouquet of pink roses in which tiny white blossoms and fern were intermingled.

Her maid of honor, Miss Jean Bishop, her friend since childhood, wore a pretty suit in soft green, with fur trimmed jacket.

M. L. Pearson attended his brother as best man.

During the reception which followed, the first slices in a beautifully decorated wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, were cut by the new Mrs. Pearson. This was served with chicken sandwiches and coffee. The bridegroom's cake was dispensed in ribbon tied boxes as guests departed.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson left for a short honeymoon trip, planning to return this week to establish their home in an apartment at Fourth and Ross streets.

Mr. Pearson, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Pearson of this city, is resuming his duties with Rankin's, where he has been employed for some time. One of the final courtesies extended him and his fiancée came on Saturday afternoon, when a large box of shower gifts from his associates at Rankin's was presented them. These and many other gifts were on display following the marriage service.

Twenty-four relatives and intimate friends of the young people had been invited to the ceremony.

EBELL OFFICERS ELECTED AND FINE PROGRAM GIVEN

That Mrs. Charles V. Davis will succeed Mrs. Paul Bailey in the presidency of Ebell society of Santa Ana Valley was determined yesterday when annual election of officers was held in Ebell clubhouse in connection with an unusually entertaining club social event and program. Mrs. Ralph Mosher, chairman of a nominating committee including Mrs. Earl Morrow, Mrs. E. T. McFadden, Mrs. E. B. Sprague and Miss Louise Tubbs, presented the list of officers, whose election was unanimous.

Their choice included in addition to Mrs. Davis, president, Mrs. John M. Cloyes, Mrs. George Raymer, Mrs. John Backus and Mrs. Carl Klatt, first, second, third and fourth vice presidents; Mrs. Hiram M. Currey, recording secretary; Mrs. Ralph Smedley, corresponding secretary; Mrs. L. M. Forney, treasurer; Mrs. W. H. Shields, Burke, curator; Mrs. H. H. Shields, Mrs. Harold Segerstrom, Mrs. Harvey Gardner, Mrs. George Dunton, Mrs. F. F. Mead and Hugh J. Lowe, board members. Installation will be the chief event of June in Ebell affairs.

The additional subjects were Thorne Smith's latest audacity, "Rain in the Doorway," characterized as "modern, the height of absurdity, verging on naughtiness, but thoughtfully delightful," and Richard Carls's "Songs of Krishna," based on the Bhagavad-Gita and rarely beautiful. The list concluded with Lewis Gibbons' "Sunset Song" presenting the passing of the old Scottish peasant life by an already established author writing under a pseudonym, and adding a remarkable study to current literature of worth and beauty.

Election and its subsequent book review by Mrs. Jack Valley, had a delightful preliminary for clubwomen in the annual Board luncheon and program held in the peacock room, with Mrs. Earl E. Smith and the Junior College quartet as special entertainers.

Mrs. Smith, who successfully conducted the Orange County federation of Women's clubs through two interesting years, gave glimpses of her trip to Europe as a member of the Sherwood Eddy seminar, dwelling particularly on changing political conditions.

The extremes of conservatism and liberalism were discussed by her as they were apparent in the different European countries, but she advocated the simplifying of political machinations generally by bringing them within the understanding of the people as a whole. The shift in the old world so far as the balance in power was concerned, was outlined understandingly and the far reaching results suggested. Mrs. Smith upheld the League of Nations, declaring as her opinion that had it been in existence at that time there would have been no World War. Youth's repudiation of some of the bequests of the older generation, she said, was held to be justified in many cases.

Musical features of the luncheon program added new laurels to those already adorning the brows of the Messrs. Martin Bowman, Rutherford Williams, Mark Hare and William Fox and their accompanist, Duncan Harmon. The songs were varied in nature, the truly delightful, ranging from the amusing "Rigoletto," to the Negro spiritual, "All God's Children Got Shoes," and the romantic "Dark Eyes."

Mrs. Valley concluded her year's series of reviews for the local clubwomen, as she is leaving later this month for a summer abroad. Yesterday she stressed the importance of Maxwell Anderson's Pulitzer prize-winning play, "Both Your Houses," as an expose of political graft in congress that would have aroused controversy two years ago, but which has been accepted as an example of delightful humor. Anderson is a newspaper man in Washington.

Analysis of the play led to a short talk on prevailing political conditions and situations, during which Mrs. Valley declared that two courses lie open to the United States and its people, either to choose isolation and adhere to it, or to become nationally minded in actuality. She expressed great hope for the economic conference to be held next month.

"Sir Henry Morgan" by W. Adolphe Roberts, was cited as a fine biography and a fascinating picture of the old buccaneers and their times; "Grain Race" by Alan Villiers was highly recommended as a book of special appeal to young men; "Gambler's Wife" by

Bridal Party Grouped For Buffet Supper And Rehearsal

Culminating a series of parties which found their incentive in the nuptials of Miss Ruth Tantlinger and John Vincent Newman, was a buffet supper given last Friday night by Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph J. Richards and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Eberole, in the Richards home, 343 McKinley avenue, Pomona.

Mrs. Richards (Helen Tantlinger) and Mr. Eberole (Jean Tantlinger) chose this pretty form of complimenting their sister and her fiancé on the eve of their wedding, with the members of the bridal party as special guests in advance of the formal rehearsal held that evening in Bridges hall, Claremont, scene of the Saturday wedding.

Deep red roses were used in profusion not only throughout the home but to center the table where they glowed like great rubies on the snowy damask as the supper menu was enjoyed.

Guests took the opportunity to present their gifts to members of the bridal party, Miss Tantlinger bestowing exquisite bracelet and earring sets of pearls and brilliants on her bridesmaids.

Covers were laid for Miss Tantlinger, Mr. Newman, Miss Sada Mae Macaulay, Miss Velma Casper, Miss Miriam Samuelson, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Tantlinger, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Newman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chapman, Messrs. Philip Newman, George Griffith and Ward Munson, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Richards and Mr. and Mrs. Eberole.

Members of the Native Daughters Thimble club are to meet Thursday with Mrs. Lillian Gant, 951 West Central avenue, Balboa Beach. A covered-dish luncheon will be served at noon.

The Women's auxiliary of the Goodwill Industries of Orange County will meet Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Goodwill store on South Main street.

The Missionary branch of the Women's auxiliary, Church of the Messiah, will meet at the church Friday at 2 o'clock.

CHURCH CLUBS FRATERNAL

WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME

WEDDINGS FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

Decorative Details Of Ceremony Conform To Pink Theme

Decorative details of the marriage service conducted Monday morning, May 8, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wiebe, 819 East Fifth street, when their daughter, Miss Evelyn Wiebe, became the bride of Curtis Pearson, conformed to a delicate pink theme which Miss Wiebe had chosen for her bridal costume as well.

One corner of the room had been banked with pink gladioluses, larkspur, roses and other blooms. Greenery completed an effective background for an archway and latticed trellis intertwined with ferns and studded with Cecile Brunner roses and carnations. Pink sweet peas were among the pretty blooms which had been used in decorating throughout the rooms of the home.

A musical program was given by Charles Grunline, who sang, "O, Perfect Me" and "One Alone," Miss Laura Joiner accompanying him, and later playing Lohengrin's wedding march as a prelude to the ceremony.

The Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor of First Baptist church, in which both the bride and bridegroom hold membership, read the single ring service. A. C. Wiebe gave his daughter in marriage.

Wearing a pale pink frock, fashioned with modish jacket and trimmed with touches of blue and coral tints, Miss Wiebe made a lovely bride. She wore a strand of crystals, the gift of Mr. Pearson, and carried a bouquet of pink roses in which white blossoms and fern were intermingled.

Her maid of honor, Miss Jean Bishop, wore a pretty suit in soft green, with fur trimmed jacket.

Mr. L. Pearson attended his brother as best man.

During the reception which followed, the first slices in a beautifully decorated wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, were cut by the new Mrs. Pearson. This was served with chicken sandwiches and coffee. The bridegroom's cake was dispensed in ribbon tied boxes as guests departed.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson left for a short honeymoon trip, planning to return this week to establish their home in an apartment at Fourth and Ross streets.

Mr. Pearson, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Pearson of this city, is resuming his duties with Rankin's, where he has been employed for some time. One of the final courtesies extended him and his fiancée came on Saturday afternoon, when a large box of shower gifts from his associates at Rankin's was presented them. These and many other gifts were on display following the marriage service.

Twenty-four relatives and intimate friends of the young people had been invited to the ceremony.

EBELL OFFICERS ELECTED AND FINE PROGRAM GIVEN

That Mrs. Charles V. Davis will succeed Mrs. Paul Bailey in the presidency of Ebell society of Santa Ana Valley was determined yesterday when annual election of officers was held in Ebell clubhouse in connection with an unusually entertaining club social event and program. Mrs. Ralph Mosher, chairman of a nominating committee including Mrs. Earl Morrow, Mrs. E. T. McFadden, Mrs. E. B. Sprague and Miss Louise Tubbs, presented the list of officers, whose election was unanimous.

Their choice included in addition to Mrs. Davis, president, Mrs. John M. Cloyes, Mrs. George Raymer, Mrs. John Backus and Mrs. Carl Klatt, first, second, third and fourth vice presidents; Mrs. Hiram M. Currey, recording secretary; Mrs. Ralph Smedley, corresponding secretary; Mrs. L. M. Forwell, treasurer; Mrs. H. H. Shields, Mrs. Harold Segerstrom, Mrs. Harvey Gardner, Mrs. George Dunton, Mrs. F. F. Mead and Hugh J. Lowe, board members. Installation will be the chief event of June in Ebell affairs.

Luncheon Events Election and its subsequent book review by Mrs. Jack Valley, had a delightful preliminary for clubwomen in the annual Board luncheon and program held in the peak room, with Mrs. Earl E. Smith and the Junior College quartet as special entertainers.

Mrs. Smith, who successfully conducted the Orange County federation of Women's clubs through two interesting years, gave glimpses of her trip to Europe as a member of the Sherwood Eddy seminar, dwelling particularly on changing political conditions.

The extremes of conservatism and liberalism were discussed by her as they were apparent in the different European countries, but she advocated the simplifying of political machinations generally to bring them within the understanding of the people as a whole. The shift in the old world so far as the balance in power was concerned, was outlined understandingly and the far reaching results suggested. Mrs. Smith upheld the League of Nations, declaring as her opinion that had it been in existence at that time there would have been no World war. Youth's reputation of some of the bequests of the older generation, also was held to be justified in many cases.

Musical features of the luncheon program added new laurels to those already adorning the brows of the Messers. Martin Bowman, Rutherford Williams, Mark Hare and William Fox and their accompanist, Duncan Harolds. The songs were varied in nature and truly delightful, ranging from the amusing "Rigolotto" to the Negro spiritual, "All God's Children Got Shoes," and the romantic "Dark Eyes."

Current Books Mrs. Valley concluded her year's series of reviews for the local clubwomen, as she is leaving later this month for a summer abroad. Yesterday she stressed the importance of Maxwell Anderson's Pulitzer prize-winning play, "Both Your Houses," as an expose of political graft in congress that would have aroused controversy two years ago, but which has been accepted as an example of delightful humor. Anderson is a newspaper man in Washington.

Analysis of the play led to a short talk on prevailing political conditions and situations, during which Mrs. Valley declared that two courses lie open to the United States and its people, either to choose isolation and adhere to it, or to become nationally minded in actuality. She expressed great hope for the economic conference to be held next month.

"Sir Henry Morgan" by W. Adolphe Roberts, was cited as a fine biography and a fascinating picture of the old buccaners and their times; "Grain Race" by Alan Williams was highly recommended as a book of special appeal to young men; "Gambler's Wife" by

Culminating a series of parties which found their incentive in the nuptials of Miss Ruth Tantlinger and John Vincent Newman, was a buffet supper given last Friday night by Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph J. Richards and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ebersole, in the Richards home, 343 McKinley avenue, Pomona.

Mrs. Richards (Helen Tantlinger) and Mrs. Ebersole (Jean Tantlinger) chose this pretty form of complimenting their sister and her fiancé on the eve of their wedding, with the members of the bridal party as special guests in advance of the formal rehearsal held that evening in Bridges hall, Claremont, scene of the Saturday wedding.

Deep red roses were used in profusion not only throughout the home but to center the table where they glowed like great rubies on the snowy damask as the supper menu was enjoyed.

The honor guests took the opportunity to present their gifts to members of the bridal party, Miss Tantlinger bestowing exquisite bracelet and earring sets of pearls and brilliants on her bridesmaids.

Covers were laid for Miss Tantlinger, Mr. Newman, Miss Sada Mae Macaulay, Miss Velma Casper, Miss Miriam Samuelson, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Tantlinger, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Newman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chapman, Messrs. Philip Newman, George Griffith and Ward Munson, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Richards and Mr. and Mrs. Ebersole.

Santa Anans Go East For Celebration Of Golden Wedding

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George N. Grigsby, 1113 Suprunge street, was celebrated with due ceremony in their former home, Park Ridge, Ill., according to accounts which Mr. and Mrs. Grigsby have related to Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Quick of East Fourth street, since the date of the anniversary, April 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Grigsby left for their old home late in April, and the golden wedding anniversary had been planned by their Illinois relatives as a special welcome to them shortly after their arrival. "Elbert Farm," the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Grigsby, near Park Ridge, was the scene of the gala affair, for which relatives and friends of their youth were assembled.

Glowing yellow flowers and pretty appointments all emphasized the golden anniversary of that wedding day of April 25, 1883, and its significance was shown in the many gifts presented Mr. and Mrs. Grigsby. The one which they will most treasure, was the picture of their children and grandchildren, 14 altogether, in its golden frame.

It was in Cuba, Ill., that they were married, and they plan to visit relatives in that and other sections of the state before their return to Santa Ana in the late summer. They arrived in the mid-west in the wake of the recent cyclones and storms, and had the unique experience of encountering a hailstorm that was conceded to be the worst ever seen in that locality. Some of the hailstones which fell over an interval of 30 minutes, were 10 inches long and six inches in circumference.

Mr. Grigsby is a brother of Mrs. J. G. Quick, 1908 East Fourth street. Since he and Mrs. Grigsby left for the east, their youngest brother, Joseph K. Grigsby, died in his San Diego home after an illness of several months. His death came on the date of the anniversary celebration, so relatives withheld the news for a short time so that its sadness could not spoil the day for Mr. and Mrs. Grigsby.

Mr. Grigsby is a brother of Mrs. J. G. Quick with his niece, Miss Grace Grigsby and Mrs. Jessie White of this city, and Mrs. Stella Anderson of Costa Mesa, were at San Diego for the funeral services. Mrs. White recently arrived from Hollywood to make her home in this city and has purchased an attractive place in North Broadway park.

Late News From Orange And Nearby Towns

DECLARES GOD ALWAYS READY, ABLE TO HELP

EL MODENA, May 9.—As a lesson Sunday evening, the Rev. James Fisk, pastor of the Friends church, read Joshua 1:1-7. He used as a text part of the fifth verse: "As I was with Hosea, so I will be with thee: I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee." He said in part:

"Riches have failed to satisfy man and they have ruined men and destroyed the happiness of homes. God has a place and a service for each of us."

"I often think of how Mueller supported several orphan asylums; he interceded to God and he never asked for a cent. Someone was telling me not long ago, that Mueller was praying and a fellow came to see him. He asked if he might see Mueller and the attendant said, 'No, he is talking to God.' When Mueller came out the man made his offering. You know it is very ill-mannered to quit when we are talking to a friend, but if the door bell rings or there is some little disturbance and we are talking to God, we quit."

"We bring God down too small; we make Him too weak. As my soul reached out to God keeps stretching me to greater things. He will satisfy us with heavenly things. I'd rather do without having a dollar in the world than to do without God. I want to be sure I have done everything that I should do. I think so many times how Jesus was on that mountain watching his disciples and he stayed on the mountain until the third watch of the night and then he went to them and stilled the tempest. He said, 'Peace, be still,' and all was quiet. How anxious I have been, and unless God comes on the scene the wind still disturbs. As God has been with those who went before, so will He be with us. God wants you to remember as He has been with men before, so is He with you tonight. God fed and cared for the children of Israel and He is still able to do that for us, if we stay in the way. There is nothing that is worth while, and nothing we can rely upon like we can upon God."

Late News From Orange And Nearby Towns

DECLARES GOD ALWAYS READY. ABLE TO HELP

EL MODENA, May 9.—As a lesson Sunday evening, the Rev. James Flak, pastor of the Friends church, read Joshua 1:1-7. He used as a text part of the fifth verse: "As I was with thee, so I will be with thee: I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee." He said in part:

"Riches have failed to satisfy man and they have ruined men and destroyed the happiness of homes. God has a place and a service for each of us.

"I often think of how Mueller supported several orphan asylums; he interceded to God and he never asked for a cent. Someone was telling me not long ago, that Mueller was praying and a fellow came to see him. He asked if he might see Mueller and the attendant said, 'No, he is talking to God.' When Mueller came out the man made his offering. You know it is very ill-mannered to quit when we are talking to a friend, but if the door bell rings or there is some little disturbance and we are talking to God, we quit.

"We bring God down too small; we make Him too weak. As my soul reached out God keeps stretching me to greater things. He will satisfy us with heavenly things. I'd rather do without having a dollar in the world than to do without God. I want to be sure I have done everything that I should do. I think so many times how Jesus was on that mountain watching his disciples and he stayed on the mountain until the third watch of the night and then He went to them and stilled the tempest. He said, 'Peace, be still,' and all was quiet. How anxious I have been, and unless God comes on the scene the wind still disturbs. As God has been with those who went before, so will He be with us. God wants you to remember as He has been with men before, so He is with you tonight. God fed and cared for the children of Israel and He is still able to do that for us, if we stay in the way. There is nothing that is worth while, and nothing we can rely upon like we can upon God."

Woe Scouty promptly said, "All right. Be sure, though, we keep out of sight. The witch knows someone has been here, and she'll be looking 'round."

"Tis best we sneak right through the trees and travel on our hands and knees. Our little plan of rescue will be spoiled if we are found."

It didn't take them very long to reach the house, and naught went wrong. They found a small back window into which kind Scouty peered.

He saw the little girls, and cried, "Come on, you two, crawl right outside. We've merely come to rescue you, so kindly don't be skeered."

At first the girls were startled. Then they heard wee Scouty speak again. "Please hurry, ere the witch comes back. You're scared of her, no doubt. 'We all will run away from here and then there will be naught to fear. Just climb up on the window sill. Then we will help you out.'"

ADOPTION BEER ORDINANCE AT BEACH DELAYED

NEWPORT BEACH, May 9.—Although the new beer ordinance for the city of Newport Beach was ready for adoption at the city council meeting no beer can be sold tomorrow as Mayor Hermann Hilmer and Councilman Irvin George Gordon were absent and the ordinance could not be passed.

City Attorney Roland Thompson read and explained the newly drawn ordinance, stating that it was drawn to conform with a state ordinance on the same subject but was stricter than the state law in some respects. The Newport Beach ordinance calls for a license fee of $10 per year where beer is consumed on the premises and the same license fee where packages are taken from the premises.

The Rev. Russell Stroup took issue with the council for issuing a $10 license fee for on sale handling of beer when the state allows as much as a $50 maximum. Councilman Lloyd Claire explained that the council had in mind asking but $10 until such time as certain angles of state and city ordinances were tried out. Thirty-one applications for beer licenses were referred to the police committee for investigation, to be reported on at the next council meeting.

Three applications for permits to operate mortuaries in the city were read. Three other applications for business permits were read, two for cafes by E. I. Moore of Newport Beach, and L. J. Detrixhe of Santa Ana, and one for a lunch stand, by C. W. Hutchins. Owing to the fact that the city has no ordinance at present dealing specifically with mortuaries, and that a petition, carrying the names of 207 people, asking that the council refuse to allow a mortuary to come into the city, the matter was referred to the city attorney for a report at the next meeting. R. A. Powell and son Arthur of Burbank appeared in person before the council seeking a permit for the establishment of a mortuary here. Several letters of recommendation were filed with the council for reference.

A resolution, asking for one-fourth of the state gas tax for use within the cities, was adopted by the council.

Councilman Paul Elsworth was in charge of the meeting. The next meeting was set for Wednesday at 3 p. m.

ROSE SERVICE CONDUCTED IN GARDEN GROVE 64 SENIORS TO GET DIPLOMAS FROM TUSTIN

GARDEN GROVE, May 9.—An impressive rose service was held in the Garden Grove Methodist church Sunday morning in honor of the Rose of Sharon, which was the text of the pastor's sermon. The altar of the church was beautifully decorated with baskets of many varieties of roses contributed by members of the congregation.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Hivestrite constructed a cross of roses which was placed in front of the rostrum. The Rev. Grover Ralston, the pastor, remarked that the eternal streets of the City of God had a beauty of color and fragrance comparable with roses. In his sermon, he said that Dr. Bruce Baxter, when visiting Joseph's tomb in Palestine where Jesus was laid, noticed a Rose of Sharon growing by the doorway of that tomb, and with tears in his eyes he dropped his head and repeated the words, "I am the Rose of Sharon, the lily of the valleys. As the lily among thorns, so is my love among the daughters of Zion."

"The rose indeed has thorns, so has life," the pastor said. "The world recognized Jesus by giving him a crown of thorns together with a death of pain and agony. Whatever may be the difference of theological opinions about the birth, life, death and resurrection of Jesus, no man can challenge his pure and spotless character."

"Bishop Tholburn declared upon his death bed that if he were to relive his life he would give it again to the downtrodden heathen of India. Men have made great sacrifices for the world and humanity because of love and of Christ. A certain lady asked a laboring man how it was that he could raise such beautiful roses in his garden, and the man replied, 'Lady, I have roses in my heart.' If we have roses in our hearts we can also have roses in our lives and deeds."

Councilman Lloyd Claire explained that the council had in mind asking but $10 until such time as certain angles of state and city ordinances were tried out. Thirty-one applications for beer licenses were referred to the police committee for investigation, to be reported on at the next council meeting.

Three applications for permits to operate mortuaries in the city were read. Three other applications for business permits were read, two for cafes by E. I. Moore of Newport Beach, and L. J. Detrikhe of Santa Ana, and one for a lunch stand, by C. W. Hutchins. Owing to the fact that the city has no ordinance at present dealing specifically with mortuaries, and that a petition, carrying the names of 187 people, asking that the council refuse to allow a mortuary to come into the city, the matter was referred to the city attorney for a report at the next meeting. R. A. Powell and son Arthur of Burbank appeared in person before the council seeking a permit for the establishment of a mortuary here. Several letters of recommendation were filed with the council for reference.

A resolution, asking for one-fourth of the state gas tax for use within the cities, was adopted by the council.

Councilman Paul Elsworth was in charge of the meeting. The next meeting was set for Wednesday at 3 p. m.

FASHION SHOW IS STAGED BY WOMEN'S CLUB

LA HABRA, May 9.—The fashion show, presented by members of the Young Business Women's club of La Habra as their first entertainment feature for the public, was attended by 250 visitors Friday night.

Miss Julia Middleton was master of ceremonies, announcing the special musical numbers. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Anabel, of La Habra, at the marionette; Miss Margaret Thornton, president of the club, and Clarence Secrist, of Montebello, on the violin, played as the models paraded. Special features were given by Mrs. Thomas La Monte, vocal numbers and Miss Beverly Downey, of Whittier, tap dancer.

Those who modeled in children's clothes were tiny Thea Armstrong and Jimmie Suckdorff, Katherine Thornton and Eldise Granger. Those who modeled were Mrs. Arthur Suckdorff, Miss Naomi Granger, Miss Ruth Dickey, Miss Bessie Mattinson, Miss Claudine Zumwalt, Miss Martha Iverson, Miss Audrey Miller, Mrs. J. I. Williams, Mrs. Beulah Wagner, Elva Welch, Christine Ylarde and Mildred Everett.

Miss Naomi Granger was awarded the prize for selling the most tickets, and Miss Harriet Clark won the bouquet of roses given by the Girls' 4-H club in their candy sale.

Baskets of roses and spring flowers were used by Mrs. Paul M. Thornton in decorating the clubhouse.

ROSE SERVICE CONDUCTED IN GARDEN GROVE

GARDEN GROVE, May 9.—An impressive rose service was held in the Garden Grove Methodist church Sunday morning in honor of the Rose of Sharon, which is the subject of the pastor's sermon. The altar of the church was beautifully decorated with baskets of many varieties of roses contributed by members of the congregation.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Hivestride constructed a cross of roses which was placed in front of the rostrum. The Rev. Grover Ralston, the pastor, remarked that he sometimes sensed that the eternal streets of the City of God had a beauty of color and fragrance comparable with roses. In his sermon, he said that Dr. Bruce Baxter, when visiting Joseph's tomb in Palestine where Jesus was laid, noticed a Rose of Sharon growing by the doorway of that tomb, and with tears in his eyes he dropped his head and repeated the words, "I am the Rose of Sharon, the lily of the valleys. As the lily among thorns, so is my love among the daughters of Zion."

"The rose indeed has thorns, so has life," the pastor said. "The world recognized Jesus by giving him a crown of thorns together with a death of pain and agony. Whatever may be the difference of theological opinions about the birth, life, death and resurrection of Jesus, no man can challenge his pure and spotless character."

"Bishop Thoburn declared upon his death bed that if he were to relive his life he would give it again to the downtrodden heathen of India. Men have made great sacrifices for the world and humanity because of love and of Christ. A certain lady asked a laboring man how it was that he could raise such beautiful roses in his garden, and the man replied, 'Lord, I have roses in my heart.' If we have roses in our hearts we can also have roses in our lives and deeds."

The rose service was held at 10 o'clock. The service was held at 10 o'clock. The service was held at 10 o'clock.

RACKETEERING CONTINUES

For a number of years the "wet" papers, and particularly the Hearst papers, as leaders of the "wets", have been declaring that racketeering was the creature of prohibition, and that the return of beer would remedy the racketeering evil, and peace and quiet would settle down upon the country, and law observance would envelop the people like sunshine. During those days there was no campaign waged against the racketeer, in fact, the racketeer was developed almost by their tutelage and excused by their editorials, and the terrible crimes that the racketeers committed were charged against the prohibitionists.

But now that intoxicating liquor is flowing without let or hindrance by officers in many places, and racketeering is increasing, these liquor leaders are complaining bitterly. We suppose the next thing we will hear is that we must have wine and gin returned to the "free list", in order to cease racketeering. And then it may be suggested that burglary and banditry be licensed, as this will make law-abiding citizens out of men who are now criminals. It is a great game—this making moral men and law observers by law.

It is interesting to notice statistics on drinking and driving while drunk. Nearly every day there is more of it. Particularly is this true on Mondays. Statistics, however, can be used in every direction. Propaganda can be manufactured by officials. In "wet" headquarters like New York and Chicago, where they wanted to break down the law, they would arrest for drunkenness as many cases as they could. Then when alcoholic liquor is permitted, they make a practice of allowing any man to walk down the street, without molestation, if he can keep between the buildings on either side of the street. In this way, they can show there were more drunk people arrested under prohibition conditions than under the liquor conditions. But the standards by which men are arrested are entirely different.

VIENNA WITHOUT A NEWSPAPER

It is probably difficult for Americans to imagine being without a newspaper uncontrolled by a censor—any more than it was possible eight months ago to imagine getting along without banks. Our imagination has been helped along a bit in that respect by the limited bank holiday.

In Vienna the other day the people found themselves without a newspaper. Two newspapers had been suppressed by the dictatorship, for the seventh time and the personnel of all the others struck in sympathy. The press of Germany has been strictly censored since the Nazis came into power. Our own ambassador to Germany, out of the country for a week end, not long ago was asked about conditions in Germany. His answer was that he was not in a position to judge as he didn't know what was going on. There is such strict censorship that people elsewhere in the world by various grapevine routes were better informed of what was going on in the country than he was. There has been severe censorship in Italy since Mussolini gained control in that country—such stringent censorship that more than one foreign correspondent has had to leave the country because he transgressed the rules for foreign correspondence. Gilbert Seldes in his book "You Can't Print That" and "Can These Things Be?" tells the situation regarding news and censorship throughout Europe and Mexico. There is strict censorship in Japan, and also in Russia.

A free and uncontrolled press is the greatest defense of a democracy.

PROVISIONS FOR PROTECTION OF INVESTORS

Providing people will ever again have anything to invest in foreign securities, they are going to be fairly well protected, if the design of a bill that is passed through the Senate is carried out.

This bill is an administration bill, and requires registration of all new issues of securities with the Federal Trade commission, and statements concerning the values of such securities provided, and a $5000 fine and five years imprisonment are incorporated for false statement in such reports.

Senator Johnson amended the measure, so as to give the people who have invested in foreign securities now on default, some chance of recovering. The manner in which foreign securities have been unloaded on the public has been a national scandal. Our State department has been used to help the thing out in the beginning, and the big banks of New York have gotten their big commissions, and then unloaded the securities on their correspondent banks throughout the country.

It seems a great deal like "locking the door after the horse is stolen," but it is hoped that we are growing another "horse."

PULITZER PRIZE WINNERS REACT

T. S. Stribling, author of the Pulitzer prize novel "The Store" and Allan Nevins, author of the Pulitzer prize biography, "Grove Cleveland," were the only two prize winners present to address the assemblage of the Friends of the Princeton Library at the dinner at which the Pulitzer prizes for literary productions in 1932 were awarded. The first public remarks of those receiving these awards have something of the weight of famous last words for they are the words of people who have been put to a test and found to be literary leaders in the nation.

Mr. Nevins said that the effect of winning the prize was to produce a feeling of humility rather than of elation. Mr. Stribling who lives in the South and whose book is about the South apparently felt equal humility, except for pardonable pride in the South, for he said that there is such sharply defined and contrasting strata of life in the South for material that a novelist would have to make a real effort to "jumble things up" and for that reason do a bad book. The South, he said, had a real past while the past of the North was "only the present extended backward."

MAHATMA GANDHI RELEASED

The British promptly opened the prison gate to Mahatma Gandhi when he started on his three weeks fast. They do not propose to permit him to die in jail if they can prevent it. "Let him fast and starve outside," they probably reason. "If he dies, we are rid of him, and if he lives through the fast, we can arrest him again, and jail him."

Only a Wendell Phillips could do justice to a subject like this—the quiet, simple, peaceful man, frail and poor, jailed by a great nation because of the dynamic power which lies within him. We have heard Doctor Millikan talk about the potential power that lies in the unexploded atom. We have read concerning the power of radium, but there is nothing that seems to equal the power of a consecrated, devoted personality, to whom nothing in this world appeals for which he would exchange his determination to achieve his ideals.

This is Mahatma Gandhi, and educators in the years to come will have difficulties in explaining to the growing youth of the world, and particularly in Great Britain, just exactly why this man had to be kept behind prison bars and incommunicado with the people.

Let Them Please Themselves

Christian Science Monitor

Did Thackeray tell the truth about Becky Sharp? Was Shakespeare absolutely straightforward in his account of Hamlet? These questions are raised in a lively debate that has taken place in the columns of a widely-read English weekly between a well-known reviewer and a no less well-known novelist.

The reviewer asserted that the novelist had been prejudiced against one of his characters in a certain story, making the character say and do things which he really would not have said or done. To which the novelist replied that he invented the character, that he was therefore the only one who knew anything about it, and that if he said that it did a certain thing—well then, it did. But the undaunted reviewer maintained that characters in fiction have an independent existence of their own, and that the novelist is merely their historian who can make mistakes about them just as ordinary historians can make mistakes about actual people.

Probably most playwrights and novelists would agree with the reviewer. Pirandello, for example, is so sure of the existence of his characters that on one famous occasion he sent six of them looking for an author. Everybody is aware of the degree to which Dickens regarded the people in his stories as real friends. In the same way Sir Harry Johnston wrote a sequel to "Dombey and Son," taking the view that, just as Macaulay and Lecky tell the story of certain periods of English history, so Dickens had told the tale of one part of the Dombey family's life only, and he himself was telling the story of another.

Even the casual reader will admit that there is a good deal of truth lying at the back of this sort of argument. A character cannot be arbitrarily made to do just what his author would like him to do in accordance with the development of the plot. When the author has imagined a character, he can, if his story is to be convincing, make him do only such things as an actual human being of the same type would do in the same circumstances. In this sense, the things the character does and says are settled by the character itself, not by the author.

There are two reasons, it might be plausibly maintained, why Hamlet did not immediately obey his father's command, of which the fact that he had done so there would have been no play is considerably the less important. The chief reason is, of course, that such a man as Hamlet is supposed to be would inevitably have hesitated as Hamlet did.

It is clear the liberty of characters in fiction to please themselves and not their authors must be defended at all costs.

A Test For Ocean Flying

Pomona Progress-Bulletin

In a world grown dizzy by chasing its tail around a spiraling path of economics and politics it is difficult to spare much time for contemplation of activities that are more spectacular than useful. Nevertheless, it is worth noticing that the Italian aviation corps is about to put on one of the most sensational shows that flyers have ever attempted. Late in May, a squadron of 24 Italian seaplanes, under the leadership of General Italo Balbo, will attempt to fly from Italy to Chicago.

This stunt, of course, will tie in with the Century of Progress exposition on Chicago's lake front. It will be a "good will" gesture of considerable value for the Italian government. It will, also—if it is blessed with any measure of success—do a great deal to hasten the day when regular trans-oceanic air services are commonplace.

One hundred flyers have chosen to take part in this flight, and in preparation for it they are being trained as rigorously as any group of Olympic athletes. Italy is taking no chances on failure. Machines and men will be in the best possible condition.

And the very thought of these two dozen airplanes winging their way across the ocean in a body is exciting.

There will be people, of course, who will be quick to proclaim that such a flight emphasizes our need for stronger military defenses against hostile air fleets. The old bogeys of the destruction of New York and Washington by bombs will be hauled out again; the old story about the new supremacy of the airplane will be chanted anew.

These arguments can be left to Congress and our military authorities. For the ordinary citizen the flight will be noteworthy as a demonstration of the reliability of the airplane as an instrument of long-distance communication.

If a squadron of this size can accomplish an ocean crossing, it will be fairly obvious that regular trans-oceanic air services can and should be established. We shall be forced to realize that so far we have hardly begun to use all the marvelous possibilities of the airplane. The Italian government, attempting a spectacular stunt flight, is in a fair way to give the cause of air transportation the biggest boost it has received since Lindbergh's flight.

More Truth Than Poetry

JUST BULLHEADS

I've angled for expensive trout
In many a mountain brook,
I've lured the gaping pickerel out
Of his deep-hidden nook,
I've watched a salmon seize my fly,
And held him firm and fast,
The light of battle in his eye,
Till half an hour had passed.
But still I hunger now and then
For that hot, fierce delight
That set my heart to beating when
The bullheads used to bite.

They took no flies on any terms;
Their avid hearts were set
On wriggling, writhing little worms,
And all that they could get.
And when you got one in a boat
Instinctively you knew
That you must grab him by the throat
Or he'd go after you.
How happy my heart would glow,
How loudly I would sing,
When I had twenty-five or so
All dangling on a string.

It mattered not though sun or rain
Were in the summer sky,
The midday murmured a refrain,
The stream went singing by.
The corks were bobbing on its breast—
And then—a sudden jerk,
And with what eager, ardent zest
A fellow fell to work!
Oh, happy boys of eight or ten
Who rise at morning light
And all the day are busy when
The bullheads start to bite.

Thoughts On Modern
Life

By GLENN FRANK

PAY AS YOU GO POLICY

I have courted many ugly looks from the politicians and the business men for the incessant emphasis I have been laying upon the necessity of keeping our eye upon a balanced national life as well as a balanced national budget.

It is, I have said, quite as important to prevent a social deficit for the future as to wipe out a financial deficit in the present.

I happen to live and work in a state that finds it unusually difficult to take this contention into very realistic account.

My state operates under a pay-as-you-go policy.

It has long taken pride in this policy.

Its constitution prohibits borrowing except in times of war and insurrection.

This policy has doubtless served a good purpose in times of prosperity in that it has prevented this state from plunging recklessly into debt as many states and many municipalities have done.

But it does prevent this state from spreading the load of this depression out over more prosperous periods.

The truly intelligent policy of public finance would seem to be to lower taxes and increase indebtedness during depressions and, in periods of prosperity, to raise taxes and to retire indebtedness.

But this is impossible under a pay-as-you-go policy.

As long, therefore, as a pay-as-you-go policy persists, and if a state is either unwilling, as a matter of policy, or unable, as a matter of fact, because of the present shrunken condition of incomes and estates, to finance desirable public services through further taxation of incomes and inheritances or through sales taxes, there is nothing left for the state to do but to cut its expenditures to existing and expected income, even if such a move involves an extensive giving up of much of the progress of the last quarter century.

A state cannot spend more than its income and stay solvent.

It is the part of statesmanship to devise ways and means of making the periods of prosperity carry the load of the periods of depression.

ARITHMETIC FAILURES

Many school failures are to be laid at the door of the arithmetic problems. "I can't do the examples." Why can't the child do the examples. He knows the tables. He can add and subtract and multiply and divide. What more does he need?

He needs the power to clear the problems of the words that cloud it. Those words treat of a situation with which he is not familiar. It is an adult situation. The words are those of an adult. Maybe the situation is one that has passed out of the lives of the community and so is hopelessly beyond the child's understanding.

In short, the problem calls for experiences to interpret it and when the child lacks the experiences he has not the power to interpret the problem. The words only add to his confusion. If he could read the problem understandingly he could work it easily. But he can't read it.

Reading is more than saying words correctly. Beyond the words lies their meaning and there can be meaning for the child only when there have been experiences. Tie the problems up to the child's experiences and then proceed to offer him such experiences as will widen his knowledge and increase his power of interpretation. If this is not possible then discard the problem in favor of one for which you can supply experiences or stimulate them in the child. Discarding problems won't hurt anybody and it might help a great many teachers and pupils.

There is no use in giving children examples in carpeting rooms when we no longer carpet rooms in the way the problem states. There is no use in asking a child to figure the cost of a wall when the wall is not built the way the problem sets out. Nor is there any good in asking him to perform involved operation with fractions when he shows plainly that he doesn't know what the thing is all about. Either throw away such mental gymnastics or save them for math hounds who lap them up.

That will leave us with everyday problems that fall within the child's experience. Now we teach him to read his problems. He reads a problem and tells what it means in his own words. Then he reads another just like it, and another. The children rarely get enough of the same kind of problem to become familiar with it on

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

JUST BULLHEADS

I've angled for expensive trout
In many a mountain brook,
I've lured the gaping pickerel out
Of his deep-hidden nook,
I've watched a salmon seize my fly,
And held him firm and fast,
The light of battle in his eye,
Till half an hour had passed,
But still I hunger now and then
For that hot, fierce delight
That set my heart to beating when
The bullheads used to bite.

They took no flies on any terms;
Their avid hearts were set
On wriggling, writhing little worms,
And all that they could get.
And when you got one in a boat
Instinctively you knew
That you must grab him by the throat
Or he'd go after you.
How happily my heart would glow,
How loudly I would sing,
When I had twenty-five or so
All dangling on a string.

It mattered not though sun or rain
Were in the summer sky,
The milldam murmured a refrain,
The stream went singing by;
The corks were bobbing on its breast—
And then—a sudden jerk,
And with what eager, ardent zest
A fellow fell to work!
Oh, happy boys of eight or ten
Who rise at morning light
And all the day are busy when
The bullheads start to bite.

Mr. Hitler should remember that the late Kaiser talked that way, too—for a while.

Thoughts On Modern
Life

By GLENN FRANK

PAY AS YOU GO POLICY

I have courted many ugly looks from the politicians and the business men for the incessant emphasis I have been laying upon the necessity of keeping our eye upon a balanced national life as well as a balanced national budget.

It is, I have said, quite as important to prevent a social deficit for the future as to wipe out a financial deficit in the present.

I happen to live and work in a state that finds it unusually difficult to take this contention into very realistic account.

My state operates under a pay-as-you-go policy.

It has long taken pride in this policy.

Its constitution prohibits borrowing except in times of war and insurrection.

This policy has doubtless served a good purpose in times of prosperity in that it has prevented this state from plunging recklessly into debt as many states and many municipalities have done.

But it does prevent this state from spreading the load of this depression out over more prosperous periods.

ARITHMETIC FAILURES

Many school failures are to be laid at the door of the arithmetic problems. "I can't do the examples." Why can't the child do the examples. He knows the tables. He can add and subtract and multiply and divide. What more does he need?

He needs the power to clear the problems of the words that cloud it. Those words present a situation with which he is not familiar. It is an adult situation. The words are those of an adult. Maybe the situation is one that has passed out of the lives of the community and so is hopelessly beyond the child's understanding. In short, the problem calls for experiences to interpret it and when the child lacks the experiences he has not the power to interpret the problem. The words only add to his confusion. If he could read the problem understandingly he could work it easily. But he can't read it.

Reading is more than saying words correctly. Beyond the words lies their meaning and there can be meaning for the child only when there have been experiences. The problems up to the child's experiences and then proceed to offer him such experiences as will widen his knowledge and increase his power of interpretation. If this is not possible then discard the problem in favor of one for which you can supply experiences or stimulate them in the child. Discarding problems won't hurt anybody and it might help a great many teachers and pupils.

There is no use in giving children examples in carpeting rooms when we no longer carpet rooms in the way the problem states. There is no use in asking a child to figure the cost of a wall when the wall is not built the way the problem sets out. Nor is there any good in asking him to perform involved operation with fractions when he shows plainly that he doesn't know what the thing is all about. Either throw away such mental gymnastics or save them for math bounds who lap them up.

That will leave us with everyday problems that fall within the child's experience. Now we teach him to read his problems. He reads a problem and tells what it means in his own words. Then he reads another just like it, and another. The children rarely get enough of the same kind of problem to become familiar with it on
